Holmes Sheriff Belatedly Reports $1,100 Burglaries

FARM BUREAU AND HARDWARE STORE LOOTED

Stolen Goods Are Transferred To Waiting Automobile Outside Nashville.

MILLERSBURG — Sheriff Wayne D. Starner disclosed today that the Nashville Hardware company and the branch office of the Holmes County Farm bureau in Nashville were ransacked early Saturday by burglars who escaped with $1,000 worth of loot and $100 in cash.

Sheriff Starner did not explain why the burglaries were not disclosed until today. Nashville is four miles west of Millersburg.

He said the burglars used an automobile owned by Elmer Galbraith, operator of the store, to carry the merchandise just outside Nashville, where the loot apparently was transferred to a waiting car. Galbraith's car was found abandoned half a mile east of Nashville.

5 Windows 'Cleaned Out.'

Galbraith estimated the store loss at $1,000. He said the show window was "about cleaned out," and the burglars also broke open a safe and stole $100 in cash.

He placed a value of $900 on the store merchandise that included three radios, work clothes, shoes, electric drills and motors and numerous small articles.

Entry was obtained through a basement window. The burglars then broke open a trap door leading to the first floor.

Honey, Tires Taken.

Carl Mendes, manager of the Holmes County Farm Bureau, said burglars also broke into the Nashville branch office, stealing 53 cents in cash and $100 worth of goods.

Missing were three cases of honey, four automobile tires and tubes, 20 pounds of coffee, an electric churn, two machine belts and work gloves.

Sheriff Starner said he linked the two burglaries, but it has not been established which building the burglars broke into first.

DRIVER ROBBED, HIS TAXI STOLEN

Area police and highway patrolmen today were on the lookout for two men who yesterday morning forced Orenal Brown, 245 Rowland avenue, Yellow Stripe cab driver, to drive them north of Plymouth where they robbed him of $27 and fled with his cab.

The car, a 46 model sedan, later was found abandoned near Plymouth and returned to Mansfield, officers said.

Brown walked a short distance into Plymouth after he was forced out of the car on Route 61, and reported the robbery.

He said the men "shoved something" against his back on Bowman street and told him to "keep driving." He drove them through Plymouth and north on Route 61 where the robbery took place, he said.

Brown told officers he had picked up the men in front of the Demo club on North Main street about 5:45 a. m. yesterday.

GRAND JURY OPENS THREE-DAY SESSION

The January term of Richland county grand jury convened at 10 a. m. today to study 30 cases against 35 defendants in a session expected to last three days.

Among the cases on the jury's calendar are two involving second degree murder charges. Defendants in the cases are Clarence Black, 224½ North Main street, and John Owens, 257½ North Main street.

Black is accused of stabbing Richard Jones, bartender at the Demo club, and Owens with slaying Alonzo B. Lindsay in a dispute last Nov. 2.

PLANT GOES ON BLOCK

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The war assets administration offered for sale or lease today a chemical plant at Fostoria, Ohio, which was operated by the National Carbon company during the war. The plant cost the government $1,219,000.

Suspects Held In Rustling

Two men of French-Spanish-Indian descent were detained in city and county jails today under suspicion of aiding their younger brother escape after he allegedly rustled two cows from the Jud Day farm near Lucas Jan. 3, Sheriff Frank E. Robinson reported.

The men, who claim they are "in show business," were apprehended at the home of their father who lives in a tent on the county fairgrounds, Robinson said.

Acting on a confidential "tip," deputies said they arrested the two men last night and early this morning. Robinson said he had information that the men, 38 and 40 years of age, aided their brother, who is 33, to "cross the line because the law is after him."

* * *

BY "CROSS the line" the older brothers meant "get him away from Mansfield" and they said they drove him to Norwalk, Robinson reported.

The cows were stolen during the night of Jan. 3 and found three days later in a horse stall at the fairgrounds. Under questioning the two men placed the time of the crime "around Christmas" but before New Year's Day. Robinson said he learned that the men celebrate Christmas on Jan. 5 and New Year's on Jan. 13.

Specific charges against the men will depend upon a conference with the county prosecutor, Robinson said. Meanwhile, notices for the apprehension of the younger brother are to be dispatched throughout the state, Robinson said.

BAD WEATHER HALTS TRIP OF GEN. MARSHALL

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The arrival of Gen. George C. Marshall in Washington to take over the office of secretary of state was delayed today because of bad weather.

Marshall's plane was scheduled to arrive in the capital at 9:30 a. m. (EST) but the Air Transport Command announced that the flight was cancelled and the general would not fly to Washington today.

The plane was due to land at Chicago at 8:34 a. m. (EST). Washington was fog-bound with low ceiling and intermittent rain.

Marshall had planned to be sworn in as state secretary at 11 a. m. to succeed James F. Byrnes.

Meanwhile, Byrnes, who resigned because of ill health, planned to sign the peace treaties with the German satellite states in solemn ceremonies at the state department.

Marshall is planning to go into immediate conference with President Truman after taking the oath of office. Byrnes was expected to join in the talks.

Marshall was not expected to make any immediate or drastic decisions. However, it was anticipated that Byrnes would stand by in Washington long enough to make the transition from one secretary of state to another as easy as possible and to acquaint his successor with pending problems.

Japs Permitted To Make Explosives

TOKYO —(INS)— General MacArthur's headquarters today authorized Japanese manufacture of 13,000 tons of explosives during 1947 for vital civilian needs.

Officials said that checks on the use of the explosives, permitted in such fields as mining, whaling and construction, will be maintained by a system of controls and licensing.

WESTINGHOUSE EMPLOYES OK NEW CONTRACT

Local 711 Ratifies Proposal Calling For More Pay, Health Insurance.

Approximately 1,000 members of Local 711, United Electrical Workers, CIO, ratified the proposed contract with the Westinghouse Electric corporation yesterday, and endorsed a wage increase request to be decided during negotiations with the company, probably next month.

Joseph Hawkins, union president, said today that the contract will be forwarded to the international union office where it will be incorporated with the proposed contracts of 25 other Westinghouse unions. The meeting yesterday, attended by more than one-third of the union membership, was held in the Johnny Appleseed junior high auditorium.

"We assume negotiations will begin in February, although it is not definite," Hawkins said.

The union's present contract with the Westinghouse company expires March 31.

* * *

Asks Health Insurance.

Hawkins said the membership voted for an "improved contract, including adequate health and welfare insurance, an improved plan of hospitalization, improved pension plan and the inclusion of many protections for the war veteran employes and those who will enter the service."

Hawkins said the union is requesting the Westinghouse corporation pay all expenses of these services.

The wage increase, Hawkins said, will depend upon the relationship of the earning power of workers and the cost of living at the time negotiations are begun. The Associated Press reported earlier that the increase would be between 27½ and 29 cents an hour.

Hawkins said these proposed increases may not hold good in Mansfield at the time negotiations are started.

Models Pledge Their Glamor To Bill Green

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—This may come as a blow to Phil Murray and the CIO, but San Francisco's professional models have pledged their glamor to William (Lucky Bill) Green of the AFL.

Mr. Murray shouldn't feel too badly though. After all he still has the longshoremen. What should he care if the AFL has prettier pickets?

The models, in a membership meeting last night, voted unanimously for AFL affiliation—thus lending weight to their demands for $2.00 an hour for undraped posing.

Miss Rosalie Drackert, president of the new-born San Francisco Model's Guild (Local No. 1), is firm about that wage scale.

Too long, she says, have artists models courted pneumonia in drafty studios for a bare pittance. Working conditions in the modeling profession have been in a sad state for years, the blonde and lovely Miss Drackert says.

It dates clear back to the days of the old masters when one old fiend used to deliberately keep his studio at a refrigeration temperature and literally freeze his models.

He liked to catch that nice blue flesh tone.

Now the ladies have only one problem:

Where are they going to pin that union button on their working clothes.

'Go!' Orders Thompson, But Talmadge Says 'No!'

ATLANTA, Ga.—(UP)—Herman Talmadge bluntly rejected today a demand that he vacate the office of governor in a face to face exchange of words with Lt. Gov. M. E. Thompson.

Talmadge said that he alone was chief executive of Georgia and had every intention of remaining so.

In a brief but dramatic meeting, Thompson entered Talmadge's office at 8:55 a. m., being admitted by state patrolmen guarding the door. He told Talmadge:

"I have been sworn in as lieutenant governor and am now the legal acting governor."

In a quiet, but blunt reply, Talmade said:

Gives Blunt Reply.

"Mr. Thompson, there is no vacancy in the office of governor. I alone am governor. I have every intention of remaining so."

Thompson demanded that Talmadge vacate the office of governor.

The two men faced each other across a desk. They were alone in the office except for members of the press.

Thompson quietly demanded that Talmadge vacate the executive offices and the official mansion.

Across his desk young Talmadge replied just as calmly, that there was no vacancy in the office, that he alone was governor and that he had every intention of remaining so.

There was no show of force and the meeting was entirely friendly. Both men shook hands at the beginning and end of the conference, and Thompson went upstairs to open an office in the office of the president of the senate.

As he departed, Thompson told reporters he would have his case up to the courts which already have for consideration Attorney General Eugene Cox's suit to invalidate Talmadge as legal governor.

Former Governor Ellis Arnall meanwhile carried on the fight against Talmadge as a private citizen. He planned to make a speech at a protest rally in Atlanta tomorrow night.

HERMAN TALMADGE and family (above) make themselves comfortable in the Georgia executive mansion, apparently undisturbed by the claims of Lieut. Gov. M. E. Thompson (right) that he is acting-governor of the state. The Georgia legislature designated Talmadge to serve as governor, despite claims of Talmadge opponents that the legislative body had no such authority. (International)

Leftists Hold 5-to-1 Lead In Polish Voting

WARSAW—(INS)—The Leftist Democratic bloc, accused of terroristic tactics and repression in the Polish election in which at least eight deaths occurred, established an overwhelming 5 to 1 lead in the first unofficial returns today.

The initial report gave the Communist-sponsored coalition party 80,765 votes against only 15,286 received by all opposition factions, including the Polish Peasant party led by Vice Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk.

Mikolajczyk, who bitterly charged the Democratic bloc of using imprisonment and threats in violation of the Yalta agreement, indicated he will address an appeal to the United States, Britain and France to withhold recognition of the Polish government selected in Sunday's election.

Mikolajczyk, leader of the opposition Polish Peasant party, asserted there were "election violations in every district" by the leftist Warsaw government, which he accuses of rigging the election by "repression and terror."

As anticipated, the Democratic bloc of leftist parties showed a landslide advantage in the first provisional results received from 18 districts in Warsaw.

Six of the reported election deaths were announced by the Warsaw government which told of a battle between troops and underground guerillas at Zamosc near Lublin.

The government said six Polish soldiers were killed in the encounter and nine injured when an armed band of 80 men attacked the polling place.

Two other persons were reported killed in scattered outbursts of violence in other sectors of Poland. Headquarters of the security police which were on armed patrol throughout the country reported only "some skirmishes."

HERBERT READY TO AIR VIEWS

COLUMBUS — (U) — Related problems of taxes and veterans' bonuses were underscored in the talk of legislators running today for Gov. Thomas J. Herbert's first message to the new general assembly.

The governor indicated that his address to a joint senate-house session at 8 p. m. would recommend a legislative program in line with the Republican state pension platform and his campaign pledges.

The platform proposed "immediate and substantial reduction in state taxes" and an opportunity for the people to vote on payment of bonuses to Ohio veterans of World War II.

Herbert has expressed agreement with platform proposals and early in his campaign called for a one-third reduction in sales taxes which last year netted the state more than $10000,000.

Legislators, particularly those from rural sections, said attempts to cut sales taxes would encounter rough going. They recalled that state representatives had turned thumbs down on similar suggestions by former Gov. John W. Bricker four years ago even after senate approval.

The GOP platform and Herbert's campaign speeches advocated a review of the liquor monopoly "to eliminate the evils of the present system." A bill already is before the senate to provide such a survey.

Also under senate study are three plans to pay veterans between $325,000,000 and $500,000,000 in bonuses, the money to be raised either from property levies or sales taxes. Several more proposals are expected.

PROBE PLANE CRASH

CLEVELAND— (AP) —Officials today began an investigation of the crash here yesterday of a twin-engined navy trainer plane that injured its three officer occupants. The plane, a navy SNB trainer, crashed from a height of 200 feet after taking off from the Cleveland airport.

DEM HAMPERS GOP TAX PLAN

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Democratic opposition threatened today to slow down Republican legislation to extend present high excise taxes on such things as furs, jewelry, leather goods and liquor.

Chairman Harold Knutson, R., Minn., of the House Ways and Means committee was ready to take the house floor in an attempt to win prompt approval of the bill and speed it to the Senate. But he needed unanimous consent to get an immediate vote, and Rep. Donald O'Toole, D., N. Y., served notice in advance that he would object.

The measure, requested by President Truman, still appeared certain of house passage. But O'Toole's objection would require Knutson to go before the rules committee for authority to take the bill to the floor, probably tomorrow.

There was no certainty the rules committee would agree.

Joan Barry Says She's Happily Wed

PITTSBURGH — (UP) — Joan Barry, who said Charlie Chaplin was the father of her three-year-old daughter, Carol Ann, was having "the happiest time of my life" today as the wife of a railroad brakeman, Russell Seck.

Her marriage last Nov. 16, was disclosed in Hollywood by her attorney, A. H. Risse, who won a court decision ordering Chaplin to pay $75 a week for the child's support until she is 21.

MASTERSINGERS REPORT 'COMPLETE SELL-OUT'

The Mastersingers concert for next Monday night is "a complete sell-out," Dr. F. A. Hoffman, ticket chairman, reported today. "There are no more seats available," he added.

The concert, to be presented at John Simpson auditorium at 8:15 p. m. will include nine numbers by Mac Morgan, radio and concert baritone; songs by a girls' trio and full chorus numbers. A. LeMoine Derr, teacher of music in Mansfield schools, will direct the program.

Following the concert, a reception for all members of the chorus, their wives and guests, will be held at the Sky club. It is hoped, Dr. Hoffman said, to have Morgan and his accompanist as special guests.

A buffet supper will be served and tribute paid to all those who have taken part in the concert arrangements and program planning.

Churches Train SS Teachers

Between 150 and 200 persons are expected to register tonight for the first session of the Leadership Training school sponsored by Sunday school superintendents of Mansfield, according to Lewis J. Cashell, publicity chairman.

Sessions will be held in the First Methodist church. Rev. Charles Stoneburner, pastor of the host church, will preside at the opening session tonight at 7:30.

Teachers will include Prof. M. A. Stuckey, dean of the Theological Seminary at Ashland college; Miss Sarah Jane Springer, religious education director at First Christian church, and Mrs. Charles Ray, religious education teacher at Mansfield schools.

BYRNES SIGNS FOUR TREATIES

Putting Signature on Peace Documents Is Secretary's Final Official Act.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of State Byrnes, as a final official act today signed the World War II peace treaties with Italy, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.) of the senate foreign relations committee and Senator Connally (D-Tex.), who took part in the 16 months of negotiations on the compacts, were at Byrnes' side in the ceremony at the state department.

There will be a second signing at Paris Feb. 10 by representatives of the enemy satellite states.

Other allies will sign the treaties at the same time. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery will act then for the United States.

Today's ceremony was arranged chiefly to permit Byrnes to sign the treaties before turning over his office to General George C. Marshall.

The actual ceremony required only two minutes. As Byrnes signed the documents at a table, Senator Vandenberg was on his right and Senator Connally at his left.

The secretary signed the Italian treaty without changing pens, but in signing the Bulgarian, Hungarian and Romanian pacts, he used several pens. These he distributed among the two senators and the diplomats who had worked with him for almost a year and a half on the writing of the treaties.

These included Undersecretary of State Dean C. Acheson, Assistant Secretary Willard Thorp, Ben Cohen, state department counselor; H. Freeman Matthews, head of the European division; Samuel Reber, chief of the southern European division; and Charles E. Bohlen, Byrnes' special advisor on Russian affairs.

WINDY AND COLD TO FOLLOW RAIN

The weatherman, conceding that this scarcely was the sort of weather one expects in January, said he detected snow flurries and colder temperature by tomorrow.

The official forecast was cloudy with rain ending tonight, turning to windy and colder late tonight. Tuesday mostly cloudy and colder, with snow flurries in the north portion of Ohio.

The high yesterday at Hayesville was 44 degrees, with a low this morning of 38. Precipitation for the 24-hour period ended at 8 a. m. today was .47 inches.

BAYUS WONDERS WHAT HAPPENED TO BAYUS

Sheriff's deputies sought today to trace the early steps in a peculiar adventure that befell John Bayus, 37, Baltimore and Ohio railroad section worker at Willard last night.

Robert Posekany, 18, Shelby, R. D. 1, told the sheriff's department that he was driving on Dempsey road, near Shelby, last night when he saw what he thought was a deep rut in the road. Coming nearer to the "rut," he saw it was a body and tried to straddle the form with his car. He expressed belief his car passed over the prostrate form, possibly without touching it.

When Bayus came to in Shelby Memorial hospital he only could remember that he had been drinking beer in a Willard cafe and that he should have had $15 in his wallet. But no wallet, money or identification was found on his person.

Sheriff's deputies said there was a possibility Bayus may have been robbed but were still investigating the lacerations of his head and leg.

His condition was reported "fairly good" in Shelby Memorial hospital.

COUNTY MARKS UP FIRST '47 AUTO FATALITY

Aged Shelby Man Knocked Down By One Car, Run Over By Another.

Jay Hill, 71-year-old Shelby resident, died a few minutes after he was knocked down by one car and run over by another at 7:15 a. m. today on Main street in Shelby.

Hill, who was Richland county's first traffic victim of 1947, was believed to have been on his way to breakfast at a Shelby restaurant. He was crossing the street.

The county's toll at this time last year was two dead. The first victim was killed on Jan. 5. Hill was Shelby's first traffic fatality since February, 1946.

Three other Mansfield area residents suffered minor injuries in weekend accidents.

Second Car Hits Him.

Shelby police said that Hill was thrown to the pavement when struck by the left front fender of a car driven by Carl Bendle of Shelby. Bendle told police that before he could stop traffic on the darkened, rainswept street, a car, driven by James Adie, also of Shelby, ran over Hill's legs.

Hill was dead on arrival at Shelby Memorial hospital.

Both Bendle and Adie told police they failed to see Hill in the street and that it was dark and raining when the accident occurred. Bendle said he immediately sent his son, Gerald, for the police after he had struck Hill.

Hill was born July 14, 1875 in Oceola. He was a member of the Evangelical United Brethren church of Shelby, and the Junior Order of United American Mechanics.

Surviving are his wife, Della; one daughter, Mrs. Lois Best of Canton; and three granddaughters.

Hill's body was removed to the Barkdull funeral home in Shelby where arrangements are incomplete. Hill's wife, believed to be in her early 70's, has been ill for some time.

Held By Sheriff.

Fred Mowers, 41, of Lucas, R. D. 1, was held in the county jail today by Sheriff Frank E. Robinson, pending further investigation of a hit-skip accident involving Wayne Milligan of Lucas, R. D. 1, Saturday afternoon.

Mowers was apprehended by sheriff's deputies through a li-

BROMFIELD MAY GO TO FRANCE

Author-farmer Louis Bromfield has been asked to go to France as a representative of the American League for a Free Palestine to confer with Britons who wish to organize a similar movement in England, Johan Smertenko, vice president of the American league, told the Associated Press today.

Smertenko was deported from England on orders of the government Wednesday after he defied a ban on his entry there from Paris in a chartered plane.

Arriving in the United States on a Pan-American plane from Brussels, Smertenko told the Associated Press that "the British government is afraid to let the British people know the true facts about Palestine."

Smertenko, whose presence raised an issue in parliament, said he was in England trying to organize a British unit of the league for a free Palestine.

Charging that the British government "does not want its Palestine policy challenged in open forum," Smertenko said his American League for a free Palestine would carry on its campaign in Britain to enlist support.

"Whether I am excluded or not is unimportant," he said. "We will continue to put across our program. Others in our league of some influence will be sent to Britain—probably Louis Bromfield or Will Rogers, jr.

George Hawkins, secretary to Bromfield, said today the author had been asked to serve as a representative in behalf of the movement, but that he did not know if Bromfield would be able to leave his duties here.

Funds High, Facts Low

COLUMNIST Wm. Philip Simms discusses the House Un-American committee and says that this money-squandering congressional group "has been handicapped by a lack of funds" . . . Oh, Mr. Simms . . . Oh, Mister! . . . The Dies committee and the present Rankin group (same difference) have always been given all the money they needed and requested . . . Dies and his crowd squandered $675,000 (and more) and didn't accomplish nuttin'. Nobody was punished, we mean, except in having their names (innocent or guilty) smeared over the front pages and radio . . . Not only did both these congressional committees (fancy way of spelling soft-snaps) get the dough they asked for, but promptly wasted it.

No, Mr. S., the important and only thing that handicapped the Rankin and Dies committees wasn't lack of funds but lack of facts.

From a Jan. 14th Broadway column: "Howard Hughes' new $100,000,000 investment in TWA caught a lot of Wall Street speculators with their tickets down."

We doubt that. The only one who appears to have been trapped was a columnist who didn't listen to a newscase which reported the whole set-up two nights before on Jan. 12th.

J. Gould, a radio critic, is miffed about "the emotionalism" of some of us on the networks. He names Pearson, Heatter, Bill Stern, too . . . We dunno about them. We only know that we try to make ours sound like the newsboy peddling his papers on the corner: "Extry, Extry! Reeeed Awl-a-Bough-Diddd!" . . . We never advertised ourselves as anything but a paper peddler . . . We mean to say our business is to help sell papers. We make our broadcasts breathless and exciting for the same reason our critic's editor uses headlines—to attract attention . . . Commentators (and radio critics) who are dull do not attract readers or listeners . . . And without subscribers the most important thing you can write (or say) is useless. The public will forgive almost anything except boredom.

Moral: All That Is Gould Doesn't Glitter.

Attention Postmaster-General Robert Hannegan . . . D. M. Robinson of Charlotte, N. C., has a sensayuma, if your New York Post Officers haven't. He sends us a letter returned to him by your couriers in N. Y. The address was plainly typed: "EMPIRE STATE BLDG.—350 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y."

"Dear Sir," adds Mr. Robinson, "I am just a small city boy, but it seems to me that either the Post Office in NYC is blind or that someone has performed one of the greatest steals in history. What has happened to the Empire State Bldg.? . . . To make matters more embarrassing, the returned envelope was rubber-stamped as follows: "Not at address given" . . . "Not in directory." WESTBROOK PEGLER

WASHINGTON—Like the routine lecheries of the Broadway and Hollywood scum, the futile antics of the discredited left wing of the old Roosevelt party have been celebrated far beyond their deserving on any rational rule of news values. This will be another note in a clamor about nothing much.

The left wing, gradually disowned by President Truman for reasons political and olfactory, held two meetings and split into two left wings, a piece of parsing comparable in delicacy and attendant noise to the busting of the atom. Henry Wallace leads one and the other seems to be equally hard up. Its chairmen are Wilson Wyatt, who failed in the job of housing administrator, and Leon Henderson, whose rowdy adventures in several positions of power under Roosevelt led him, in the end, to a temporary job as a hired opinionarian on the wireless. The sponsorship here was, if not poetic, not inappropriate either. Henderson sang for his supper for a manufacturer of heels. His mandate as a political leader is as insubstantial as Jimmy Roosevelt's. In Washington he was classified as an economist, a title of diminishing prestige often conferred on bookkeepers and staticians.

Both of these left-wing groups are orphans of the Democratic party of Harry Truman. He kicked several of the more conspicuous members out of the cabinet and other government jobs. He estranged the last of them when, after the last election, he laid the ghost of Hyde park and became president of the United States in his own name.

* * *

MADAME FRANCES PERKINS wrote in her memoirs that one reason for the coolness between Roosevelt and Al Smith was that, after Roosevelt became governor of New York, Smith conceived himself to be an elder statesman and tried to impose his will on the up-country squire. Taft had similarly resented unsolicited guidance from Roosevelt I, and Truman, in his turn, reacted likewise to the spook. Last spring he intimated that he would consult his ouija board for counsel. This experience cost the country countless millions of hours wasted in the lines at meatless markets and breadless bakeries, Democrats untold millions of votes, and contributed to their loss of congress.

Mr. Truman was reasonably up on the gossip of Washington and knew a thing or two about the pratical side of the Roosevelt family. He realized that he was playing the chump, and being played for one, by a group of political parasites. They had no following and could offer him nothing but platitudes noisily publicized.

It was obvious that they were not his people, but the last Roosevelt's, and were in business as usual for business reasons. Mrs. Roosevelt, for example, has received no free $8,000 mink coat in her old role of first lady this year.

Jimmy turned a few dollars as a professional campaigner for one of the P. A. C.'s and Elliott struck it rich as a scandal-monger, but these Roosevelt scions were more against than for Truman. Certainly neither was an asset nor a comfort.

It was time for a man to be a man. President Truman's personal declaration of independence and of his disbelief in haunts reassured even such muttering misanthropes as Jim Farley and won him the gruding respect of Senator Taft and a measure of Mr. T's apprehension, too.

FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

His Plea Is Answered

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The female, or obstinate sex, is covering my nakedness. A good thing, too, because I am blushing all over.

I told the ladies, when I penned my plea last week for old-fashioned short-legged cotton union suits, kindly to turn their heads and so avoid embarrassment. They did nothing of the kind; they have sent me male lingerie, advice, offers, information, and intimate confessions of their own underwear difficulties.

For $1 per pair a lady in Texas will tailor me union suits with rose buds on 'em; if I want my underdrawers plain I'll have to send her the material; she makes union suits for her men folks from flowered flour sacks.

* * *

Another lady in San Francisco has offered to make me union suits free. A third in Pittsburgh, Pa., reports that the trouble is simple: one old-time union suit maker is turning out sportshirts, another is making petticoats with lace around the edges, and a third is producing girdles. Not very good girdles, either.

"And talking about girdles," she continues. Whooie! The ladies aren't embarrassed; that's certain, but I feel like the fellow who got into the black lace chemise department by mistake. I am an underwear expert.

* * *

DOZENS OF LADIES from all over have sent me ads from stores trying to sell long-legged, itchy union suits at bargain prices. These I cannot use. And that brings us to Miss Helen Mary Wagner, whom I love dearly and hope some day to meet.

Miss Wagner was helping her father take inventory in his general store at Triadelphia, W. Va., seven miles from Wheeling, and she was thinking about me when she reached the underwear department. Eureka!

She dispatched me two fine white broadcloth union suits in my exact size (she must be psychic) and marked her package urgent. As I type these lines of tribute to a lady whose kindness surpasseth understanding, I am wearing one of her union suits. Soft, roomy, comfortable. The first unpatched union suit I have worn in four years.

In Syracuse, N. Y., my plea for the underwear makers to go back to making underwear happened to be printed smack-dab against an advertisement by an ex-union suit maker, urging the ladies to buy a garment known as a two-way stretch. To the several gentlemen who sent me word of this sorry circumstance, I must report that I agree; it is a woman's world.

* * *

IN QUINCY, Mass. and Blytheville, Ark., shop keepers wrote they still had my kind of union suits in stock; I have rushed orders to both. A lady in Lake Charles, La., says she is in the same boat with Mrs. O., tired unto death patching the patches on her husband's union suits. The Lewis Knitting Co., of Janesville, Wis., has offered to knit me some union suits; I appreciate the offer, but the knitted kind bite me. (My fault, of course. I have a peculiar shape.)

G. W. Stengel of Pittsburgh, Pa., reports that he has invented a shirt with long tails that work something like a diaper, it does away with union suits altogether. Mrs. Cecil N. Hall of Three Rivers, Wis., says, yes but what about her slips? She is 74, she likes cotton ones, and can find none. At least none that a lady would wear.

FIGHTER GROUP ASKS CITY TO EXPRESS STAND

Mayor Vaughn Refers Letter To Council Committee.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn today had referred to the airport committee of city council a request for concurrence from the city as to whether Mansfield still desires to have the 164th Fighter squadron of the Ohio Air National guard located here.

The letter addressed to Vaughn from Col. Lamont Saxton of the Lockebourne Army Air Base at Columbus requested confirmation of whether a lease of land and flying appurtenances could be obtained at Municipal airport.

Col. Saxton, senior air instructor of the guard wing at Columbus last September indicated intention of locating the fighter unit here if land could be leased and certain flying facilities could be provided by the city.

Spare hangers now located at other fields in Ohio would be moved here by the Guard, but the city would have to install concrete flooring, a parking mat and a connecting strip to the runways and taxiways, Saxton said at that time

MERGER PLAN HITTING BUMPS

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman's plan for unifying the armed forces is hitting bumps on both sides of Capitol Hill today even before any formal drive to carry it out.

In the senate there are reports of a possible scramble by rival committees to handle the bill, once it arrives from the war and navy departments.

Chairman Gurney (R., S. D.), of the armed services committee, told a reporter he expects the legislation to be handled by his group.

But Senator Taft (R., Ohio), who has a big voice in GOP policy making, said there has been "some talk" of sending the merger bill to the committee on executive expenditures headed by Chairman Aiken (R., Vt.).

Several senators noted that under the congressional reorganization act Aiken's committee is to handle legislation dealing with the "re-organization of government departments."

Aiken was silent but Gurney said:

"I'm not worrying."

Across the capitol, Chairman Andrews (R., N. Y.) of the house armed services group has taken several verbal potshots at the unification plan outlined at the White House.

But house leaders already have decided that merger legislation there will be handled by the executive expenditures committee where Rep Wadsworth (R., N. Y.) veteran advocate of unification, is expected to push it along.

Social Security Benefits Become Real For Widow

By AL PREYER

One might say that a far stretch of the imagination would be required to connect the Mansfield Social Security administration, celebrating its 10th anniversary this month, with the Mansfield Memorial Day parade on May 30, 1946.

But in the minds of Edward P. Blonston, Mansfield Social Security office manager and Mrs. Ivy Kuelling, of Mansfield, that connection is direct and important.

Mrs. Kuelling suddenly lost her husband that day. She attributes her peace of mind and security, in large measure to the prompt assistance given by Mr. Blonston and his staff.

"Knowing that the records of the Social Security office are strictly confidential," Blonston said, "but desiring other people to know of the great benefits that can occur through the program at a time when one least expects it, Mrs. Kuelling has given her full consent to the telling of her story.

* * *

"GEORGE KUELLING died after being stricken with a heart attack while marching with the McVey Post American Legion drum and bugle corps from the Mansfield cemetery after the Memorial Day celebration, May 30, 1946.

"The sudden death of this veteran of World War I, and Legion member for 27 years, struck sadness into the hearts of all Mansfielders. Mrs. Kuelling thought she had seen her world collapse.

"Today she says 'I do not know what I would have done without the prompt, comforting assistance of the Mansfield Social Security administration. As a result of their aid I have been able to keep my home together and my three children, under 18 years of age, with me.

"'It has not been necessary for me to leave my home to work. People in general do not realize what a great help this was, I cannot say too much.'

* * *

"THIS IS BUT one of many cases of a similar nature," Blonston pointed out. "It is really appalling the little that is known concerning the fact that Social Security can act as insurance as well as an old age benefit."

"As a widow, Mrs. Kuelling was entitled to a portion of her husband's primary insurance and the children to the rest. When Mrs. Kuelling becomes 65 she will draw her own Social Security benefits.

"Our Mansfield office has expanded its volume of business considerably since the doors first opened in 1937." Blonston related. 'Robert Mish was the first office manager. I arrived as manager in 1941. Our staff has grown from to six at present.

"Benefits were first paid out of this office in 1940 and the first compilation of benefits was made in 1941 when it was found that 1,611 persons are receiving $29,179.94 per mth. In 1946, 3,258 persons are receiving $58,321.23 per mth, an indication of the growth the office," Blonston said.

* * *

THE MANSFIELD office covers Richland, Crawford, Ashland, Knox, and Morrow counties.

"The Mansfield office is at the service of the pub.," Blonston said.

"Individuals arranged to contact us at the office where we will explain any part of the program. Those who reach the age of 65 and the survivors of a worker who dies are particularly urged to contact us at once."

Blonston is married and lives with his family at 402 West Third street.

Up and Down The Street

ALL IN NIGHT'S WORK—

A phone call from a Hedges street woman who excitedly reported a prowler trying to enter her house at 2:53 a. m. Sunday sent officers hurrying to the scene in time to find the woman's husband trying to get into the house after an evening out.

Another call Saturday night reported a prowler in the vicinity of an East First street residence, but police found only the garbage can tiped over and the garbage scattered by prowling dogs.

BLOW TO HIS PRIDE—

He bought a Packard automobile not so long ago and he's very proud of it, as he has reason to be, but yesterday he sustained an unexpected blow to his pride. He was taking the family for a ride and had made a last minute dash to the refrigerator to get a carrot as a "pacifier" for the year-old-baby. His wife took one look at the carrot clenched in the baby's hand. It was a shriveled and wobbly bit of vegetable. "Well," remarked the wife, "your daddy can drive a Packard but you've got to chew on a dilapidated carrot!" Today he is avoiding show windows which display plump, crisp vegetables.

PLANS TO MOVE TO MANSFIELD AFTER APRIL 16

Superintendent Had Held Post 20 Years; His Wife Also Leaves Matron's Job.

Grover C. Dickson, superintendent of the Richland county home for the past 20 years, today submitted his resignation to the county commissioners.

Effective April 15, the action also includes the resignation of Mrs. Dickson as county home matron.

Dickson gave poor health as his reason for vacating the post he has held since April 1, 1927, when he gave up farming operations on the farm on which he was born and raised. The family homestead is on State Route 178 north of the Mansfield airport.

The county commissioners took no immediate action on the resignation this morning. C. L. Shoup, chairman, said.

"Mr. Dickson has been in poor health for the past year and felt that he could not carry on. We are sorry to see him go. He kept the home in good condition," Shoup said.

Mrs. Dickson said she and her husband have no plans for the immediate future except to "move into town to live." She said they intend to reside at 76 Bartley avenue.

Shoup said that an appointment to the superintendency will be filled through examinations by the Ohio Civil Service commission.

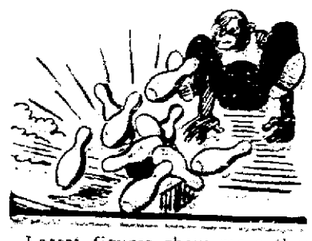
MANSFIELD TIRE KEGLERS TAKE DOUBLES LEAD

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

BOWLING, one of America's greatest recreational pursuits, is sure getting a heavy play in Mansfield, what with the Colony bowling lanes the scene of the second 1947 tournament . . . The men's city tourney, which is being run off this week, has attracted 134 teams while the women's city meet which ended last week had its biggest entry list . . . More than 150 quintets are expected to compete in the Women's Inter-City meet on the Colony slides in February and another 500 teams will roll in the Elks state competition in March and April.

* * *



Latest figures show more than 16,000,000 pin-blasters in the U. S., including a half-million high school students . . . There are 198 men's and 62 women's teams rolling regularly at the Colony . . . American Bowling Congress lists a membership of 216,914 teams. . . . The Ohio State tournament opens in Akron on Feb. 8.

Proceeds of the professional basketball games sponsored by the City A league go into the loop treasury . . . The first game netted $68.90 for the league . . . Out of the league treasury comes pay for officials, doormen, scorer and gym rental . . . Last year the pro game "take" enabled the league to return entry fees to all sponsors . . . The league has more members (11) this year than ever before . . . Only seven teams competed in 1945-46.

Navy veterans Don Heskett and Jim Fendrick of Galion will be eligible to compete in basketball Tuesday . . . The Shipstad-Johnson Ice Follies open in the Cleveland Arena tonight. The Follies continue to Jan. 27 . . . Cleveland is third in total games won in the American league since its inception in 1901 . . . The Indians have copped 3,552 victories with 3,343 losses . . . New York leads the pack with 3,765 wins and 2,889 defeats with Detroit having 3,602 wins and 3,297 losses . . . The Yankees largest edge is over S. Louis, 598 to 358. . . . New York has won 508 of 951 games with Cleveland.

Mansfield could possibly get another crack at an Ohio State league franchise in 1948 . . . But with no park, and apparently no chance of one being built, it looks like it will be a long time before Mansfield again has professional sports . . . A Class A baseball league of Ohio and Michigan cities may be formed to start operation in '48 . . . Dayton is one of the interested cities . . . Dayton is playing in the Ohio State league with permission to withdraw to enter a higher class league . . . That would leave the way open for Mansfield . . . The Ohio State loop wanted Mansfield as a member for 1947 but pro baseball can't be played in the figment of someone's imagination . . . Mansfield has only one baseball and four softball diamonds and they can't begin to carry the load for our amateur program.

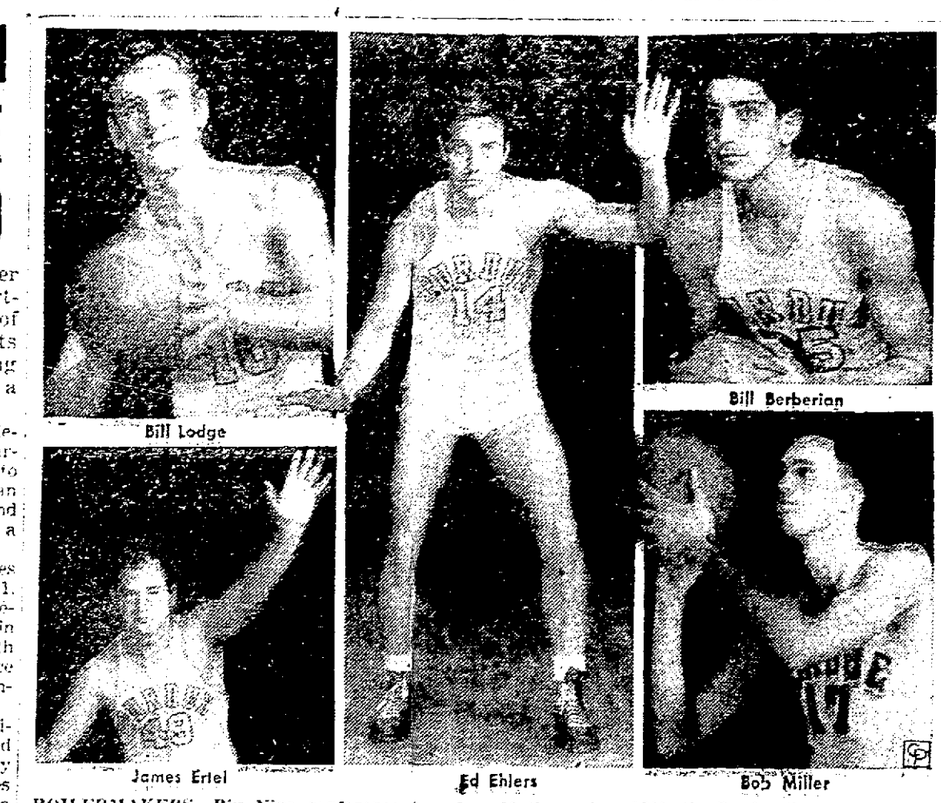
SPORTS FALLACIES by MARGERY MILLER

The hunter who wounds a deer apparently badly, and sits down to wait for it to go home and die, may have a long wait.

Although hunting lore long has substantiated the idea that a wounded deer will crawl into a thicket and stiffen there, he often does nothing of the kind. No hunter is capable of judging whether or not an animal which has been wounded but still can run will survive.

Wild deer are muscular and tough. They have a large supply of vitality. Moreover, their wounds often heal quickly. They recover from injuries which would kill a man.

A sportsman should follow a wounded deer to make sure that the animal does not either get away or suffer a painful death.



BOILERMAKERS—Big Nine conference champions 11 times since 1917, the Purdue Boilermakers are in hopes of upsetting the dope bucket and snaring another crown. The Boilermakers have dropped two league games and are in next to last place. The team includes Billy Lodge, Bill Berberian, forwards; Ed Ehlers, Jim Ertel, guards, and Bob Miller, center.

Business Will Be Brisk In Big Nine Basketball

CHICAGO—(INS)—Business will be brisk in Big Nine basketball circles tonight. Iowa plays Purdue, and the loser can throw in his cards, give up the ghost, or do whatever one does when one is all-but mathematically counted out.

A league topped by offensively-brilliant Wisconsin and ably seconded by defensively-brilliant Michigan and luckily-brilliant Indiana can't offer much in the way of grace to a team which stumbles even for a moment.

And Iowa and Purdue, rated in pre-season calculations as two of the most vicious fives in the loop, have been stumbling to beat the band.

They tripped and fell Saturday night, and 'twas through their lapses that Indiana and Michigan hustled into a tie for second place, a scant half a game back of undefeated Wisconsin.

Before a capacity crowd of 9,330 fans at Bloomington, Ind., the Hoosiers, led by their shrewd team captain, Ralph Hamilton, stalled to the gun and trotted away with a shivery 50 to 48 decision.

At Ann Arbor, Mich., the defensive merits of Ossie Cowls' slow-butsure technique paid off again. Cowls' Michigan cagers, best defensive team in the conference, walzed over winless Purdue, 66 to 43. And Paul Hoffman and Ed Ehlers, Purdue's two hotshots, didn't get a single point between 'em!

Ohio State's defending champs dumped woebegone Northwestern, 60 to 9, at Columbus, while lengthy Jim McIntyre tossed in 28 points to lead his Minnesota teammates in a 73-59 non-conference win over Michigan State.

Marchant Scores 24, Church Team Loses

Forward Marchant scored 21 points but his First Congregational team dropped a 44 to 28 verdict to Central M. E. in the YMCA Junior church basketball league.

Tipper and Lanning tallied 18 points each for the Central M. E. Hugh Meilinger scooped 15 points through the nets to lead Grace Episcopal to a 34 to 15 victory over Park Avenue Baptist five.

St. John's defeated St. Paul's 28 to 20 as center Anderson added 11 points to his record for the winning combine. Grace Gospel edged by First Christian 25 to 20. Cramer and Hardy flipped 17 points through the hoops for the Gospel quintet. Cramer scored nine and Hardy eight, respectively.

Schools Dissolve Big Seven League

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. — (AP) — Dissolution of the Big Seven Athletic Conference, tri-state scholastic league, was voted at a meeting here yesterday.

Huntington Central, Portsmouth (O.), Charleston (W. Va.), and Huntington East High schools voted to dissolve the league while Stonewall Jackson of Charleston, Ironton (O.), and Ashland (Ky.) favored continuance.

The passing of the conference, effective June 1, will not affect competition for the 1946-47 basketball crown. No title, however, will be at stake in track and baseball this spring and members may schedule games with one another as they please.

Hopes To Settle Boxing Dispute

PATERSON, N. J. — (U.P.) — Abe J. Greene, president of the National Boxing association, today started the machinery that should send Ike Williams and Bob Montgomery into the ring to settle their lightweight title dispute before June.

Announcing unexpectedly that Williams was ready to defend his N. B. A. claims, Greene issued an "open invitation" to Chairman Eddie Eagan of the New York commission to "join hands" in arranging a match with Montgomery, who is recognized as champion by New York and affiliated states.

Paul Bibeault, Chicago Black Hawk goalie, is the first French-Canadian to play for a Chicago team in more than 10 years.

Greenberg Change Arouses Speculation

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK — (INS) — Three of the most interesting questions in connection with the sale of Hank Greenberg by the Detroit Tigers probably will remain buried forever among the numerous secrets in behind-the-scenes baseball maneuvering.

Why was he waived out of the American league; what will his salary be, and what was behind Detroit's haste to unload the aging slugger to the Pittsburgh Pirates?

Larry MacPhail, head of the New York Yankees, who has been yelling that he would pay $150,000 for a first baseman, says he made bids for Greenberg, but that the Tigers wouldn't let him go in the American league without getting some players.

The waiver price is $50,000 for which, of course, the Tigers had no intention of parting with the veteran. However there had to be some skullduggery involved for all the American league clubs to waive on Greenberg.

It will be recalled that in 1945, one of the mainstays of the Chicago Cubs in their rush to the National league pennant was Pitcher Hank Borowy, who had been waived out of the American league when he was the property of the Yanks.

It looks as though the behind-the-scenes horse-trading in baseball is one of the most vital segments of the game. This is the part the public never gets a chance to know anything about.

Hank's salary with Pittsburgh would make an interesting item, too. He was supposed to have been paid around $60,000 last year for unwillingly playing first base, instead of the outfield.

BLOOR, GAGICH HIT OVER 100 FOR TYGER 5

Two members of the Mansfield Senior high school basketball team have passed the 100 mark in scoring with two more due to go over the top this week.

Tommy Bloor, who started the season as a substitute forward, leads the parade with 124 points, an average of 10.3 a game. Chuck Sisco trails with an even 100. However, Nick Gagich has a better average than Sisco. Gagich has scored 98 points in one less game. He has averaged 8.9 and Sisco, 8.3.

Ollie Cline is fourth with 96. Cline and Gagich have counted the most free throws, 22 apiece. Cool Ollie compiled the season's individual high of 19, against Columbus Bexley.

Veteran Ralph Majors has counted only 53 points but has had 10 or more in three different contests.

Mansfield plays at Fremont Ross tomorrow night and entertains Warren Harding Friday.

Undefeated College Fives Hit Rocky Road

NEW YORK — (AP) — The road gets rockier and rockier for the college basketball powers playing the usual tough schedules and, although there still are a number of major fives boasting unblemished records, the chances are slim that they'll be flying the unconquered pennant come tournament time.

With most of the ranking quintets playing 25 and 30 game schedules, and a majority of the contests against foes of equal or near equal calibre, it just takes a little miss to mean the difference between victory and defeat.

For instance, one basket was the difference between a perfect slate and a 14-1 won and lost record for powerful Texas. The Longhorns' only setback this season came at the hands of Oklahoma A. & M. 40-39.

Eleven teams, including two ranking quintets, toppled from the unbeaten list last week, leaving only 13 with clean slates. Of these only seven are of top-flight calibre. They are Seton Hall of New Jersey, 15-0; Marshall (W. Va.) 14-0; Duquesne (Pa.) 11-0; Eastern Kentucky 11-0; Alabama 10-0; West Virginia 7-0; and Army 4-0. The other unbeatens include Kirksville (Mo.) Teachers 13-0; Wheaton (Ill.) 9-0; Mankato (Minn.) Teachers 9-0; Washington & Jefferson (Pa.) 7-0; Trinity (Conn.) 7-0 and Slippery Rock (Pa.) Teachers 5-0.

Those which got knocked off for the first time were headed by Washington of Seattle, winner of its first 12 games, and Rhode Island State, which had won nine. Washington was turned back twice by Washington State in Pacific coast conference games, 51-48 and 58-54, while the Rams were upset Saturday night by St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 69-59.

The other clubs to taste their first licking of the season included Lafayette, Lawrence Michigan, Tech, Monmouth (Ill.) Capital, Heidelberg, Washington & Lee, Bucknell, Ursinus and Dubuque.

Cleveland Rebels Chalk Up 3rd Win

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The Cleveland Rebels joined the ranks of the "Giant Killers" today in the Basketball Association of America after chalking up their third win of the season, 79-72, over New York's Knickerbockers.

The fast-breaking Rebels rocked the walls of the Cleveland Arena last night as they poured 25 points through the hoop in a torrid final period to whip the boys from Gotham, second-placers in the eastern division.

Flashy Frankie Baumholtz paved the way to the Cleveland victory with 22 points to boost the Rebels to only four games out of the second spot in the western loop.

SENATORS SIGN 13

ORLANDO, Fla.—(U.P.)—Pitcher Louis (Bobo) Newsom and 13 other members of the Washington Senators today were reported under contract for the 1947 season by Club President Clark Griffith, who is here to open spring training headquarters.

Indians Sign Three; Roster Now At 17

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The Cleveland Indians' roster of signed players was up to 17 today after three more contracts were received yesterday by President Bill Veeck.

Latest additions are First Baseman Ed Robinson, Pitcher Don Black and Outfielder John Ward. Robinson, who is expected to be the Tribe's regular first-sacker, led the International league in runs batted in last season when he was with the Baltimore Orioles.

Veeck also announced the purchase of the Meridian Peps of the Southeastern league as another link in Cleveland's expanding farm chain.

Oklahoma Indians Meet Memphis All Americans

Mansfield's second professional basketball game of the season will be staged at Senior high school tonight at 8:30 with the Oklahoma Indians meeting the Memphis All American Whiz Kids.

Completing the basketball portion of the show, Komito's Clothiers of the Mansfield City A league collide with the Ashland Athletic club quintet in an exhibition at 7:15 p. m. Komito's holds down third place in the first division of the City loop with four wins and one loss.

Vying with the Indians for showmanship honors will be Jesse Garrett, the little referee with the big voice. Garrett is a credited official of the Basketball Association of America. He worked the pro clash here between the Columbus Pros and New York Komedy Kings.

The Braves have averaged 62 points a game in winning 41 of 44 games this season. Six different tribes are represented on the Indians' roster and all of the players are college graduates. Their pre-game and half-time show is reputed to be quite interesting. Indian war dances, songs and other redskin folk lore will be presented with the players attired in native regalia.

The Whiz Kids have won 13 of 15 games played this month. Included on the roster are Hubert Price, Xavier; Charley Terry, Tuskegee; Bob Seay, Clark university; Woody King, Alabama State and Eddie Moore, Augusta Paine.

Baseball Clubs Seek Tie-up With Gridders

CHICAGO — (INS) — Directors of the American Association of Baseball clubs were in Chicago today, seeking a tie-up with pro-fessional football.

The men disclosed at the opening of a special session yesterday that they were "eager" to rent out their idle ball parks to some pro football league.

However, they emphasized that they wanted nothing to do with the grid clubs.

The association disclosed that it had appointed a football committee to study the situation.

The committee chairman is Lee MacPhail, general manager of the Kansas City Blues, and son of Larry MacPhail, part owner of the baseball and football Yankees.

Earl Flora, new association secretary, said the committee would meet with George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears, to discuss a possible agreement between the AA and the National Pro Football league.

Flora also disclosed that association President Frank Lane had been asked to meet Jan. 29 in New York with officials of the All-America Football conference.

George Schoux Wins $10,000 In Richmond

RICHMOND, Calif. — (AP) — George Schoux, a boy who learned his golf on the public links of San Francisco, developed into another threat to the scoring kings of the PGA yesterday by winning the $10,000 Richmond Open Golf championship with a 16 under par score of 268.

Schoux, who jumped four strokes ahead of the field with a third round total of 197 Saturday, stood off the challenge of two of golf's all-time greats in the final round—U. S. Open champion Lloyd Mangrum and the nation's leading money winner Benny Hogan.

In the final threesome of the tournament, Schoux playing cautious, consistent golf for a par 71 against a 70 scored by Mangrum—who posted a final total of 271 to tie for third with Hogan—and Chick Harbert of Farmington, Michigan. Hogan scored a final round of 68 and Harbert had a 66.

Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Texas, posted a final round 67 for a 269 which was good for second place.

Schoux, whose $2,000 winnings here will enable him to continue with the winter tournament tour, will start Thursday in the Phoenix Open, where he turned pro last year.

See End of Strike

MIAMI, Fla. — (U.P.) — Hialeah racetrack officials said today they believed that a strike of grooms and exercise boys soon would end. Ben Jones, trainer for Calumet stables, said half his grooms worked yesterday, and two other owners, John Clark and Moody Jolley, said all their grooms were working.

Yanks Use $150,000 As Bait for Vernon

NEW YORK — (AP) — If Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, is desirous of picking up an easy $150,000, all he has to do is hand over James B. (Mickey) Vernon, his much-sought after first baseman, to the New York Yankees.

This became obvious today following Yankee President Larry MacPhail's oratory explaining why the club permitted Hank Greenberg to be waived out of the American league.

Pointing out that he had tried three times since last fall to land the major league's home run king from the Detroit Tigers, MacPhail said:

"We are in the market for a first baseman and have tried repeatedly to acquire Greenberg. We approached Detroit about Hank last fall, again at the Los Angeles meetings in December and again last week. Each time we were turned down. We also have offered and are willing to pay $150,000 for a major league first baseman satisfactory to Manager Bucky Harris."

Although he did not mention any names, it was apparent that he referred to Vernon, for whom he repeatedly had offered Joe DiMaggio, his star outfielder.

Vernon would fit in well with the new Yankee plans which stresses inside baseball, speed and hustle over the fence-pulling habit which the Yankees have become accustomed to in recent years. MacPhail and Harris believe the Yankees made a mistake in swinging so often for the fences instead of hitting to opposite fields last year. It was doing just that—hitting to opposite fields—that enabled Vernon to lead the American league in batting last season.

British Deny Renouncing 20-Year Russian Alliance

STALIN HEARS FIRM PROTEST ON NEWS STORY

Foreign Office Denies Report Printed By Pravda.

LONDON —(INS)— The British government directed a protest directly to Premier Joseph Stalin today concerning assertions by Pravda, the authoritative Soviet publication, that Britain had renounced the Anglo-Russian 20-year alliance.

The British foreign office instructed Sir Maurice Peterson, ambassador to Moscow, to submit the emphatic note of rebuttal for Stalin's personal consideration.

The foreign office's angry official response to the recent Pravda attack was noteworthy in that the British government rarely resorts to answering Russian newspaper criticism by official channels.

The Pravda article, which said the treaty might be regarded by London as no longer valid because of the establishment of the United Nations, appeared last Wednesday.

It was directed at a radio address delivered by Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin on Dec. 22. It attributed to him the suggestion that the alliance for post-war collaboration was no longer in effect.

It based its assumption on a statement by Bevin that Britain "does not tie herself to anybody except in regard to her obligations under the charter" of the United Nations.

The note to Stalin said:

"There is no question of this."

The British note asserted that the Pravda interpretation would indicate "that all treaties and agreements between states are automatically superseded by the existence of the United Nations." It termsd such an interpretation as "obviously absurd."

The British protest showed annoyance that the Soviet paper had lifted Bevin's remark out of its context. The note declared:

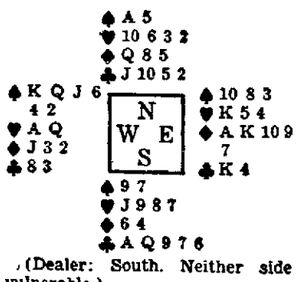
"The broadcast was intended to show Britain's foreign policy is not aligned in an anti-Soviet direction, but on the contrary, favored cooperation among all the United Nations, especially with Soviet Russia and the United States of America, with the object of preserving peace and aiding reconstruction."

DENIES KILLING FATHER

BOWLING GREEN—(AP)—Fred Burkhart, of North Baltimore, Saturday pleaded innocent when arraigned before Judge E. K. Solether on a grand jury indictment charging first degree murder. Burkhart, 49, was charged with killing his father, Charles, 71, with a shotgun when the elder Burkhart allegedly sought to stop his son from striking his wife, Ruth, with a doll.

Barclay On Bridge

THERE ARE two extremely different kinds of situations in which it is unwise to double an opponent's slam contract. One is when you reckon the information given to declarer about your hand will help him plan his play more effectively. The other is when your double is likely to influence your partner into making a lead which might help the declarer make his contract. It has become conventional with practically all fine players that the doubling of a slam by the opening leader's partner calls for a different lead from that which otherwise would be natural.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	4 ♦
Pass	5 ♦	Pass	5 ♠
Pass	6 ♠	Pass	Pass
Dbl

This deal is a perfect example of how the lead-directing effect of a double can enable a slam contract to be made. Under the convention originated by one of the greatest of national tournament players, Theodore A Lightner, North is practically commanded by the double to lead a diamond —expecting South probably to be blank in the suit and thus able to ruff that lead.

So North led his diamond 5. The A won it, and the spade 3 was led to the K and A. Now North felt sure his partner had held a singleton diamond. So he led the suit again, his 8. West won with the J, cleared trumps with the spade Q, scored the heart A and Q, led the spade 2 to the 10 and on diamonds discarded his clubs without even having to use the good heart K.

If South had not doubled, North would have made his natural lead of the unbid suit, a club That would have resulted in setting the contract two tricks.

GLEN ROCK, N. J.—(AP)—Col. Henry C C. Weinkauff is a commander without a command.

He was notified by the war department last week to take over the 1135th Engineer combat group, organized reserve, at Hackensack. He found no such outfit there, or anybody who knew about it. The First army passed the problem on to the war department.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

A FRIEND of George Heister, out in Pine Bluff, Ark., went to New York to hear what the insiders were saying about the stock exchange. "Wire me the straight dope," said Heister.

In due course he received this telegram from his friend: "Some think it's going up. Some think it's going down. I agree. Whatever you do, it will be wrong. Act at once."

* * *

The opposition candidate concluded his intemperate and inept tirade with a bang of his fist on the table and a cry of "Are we going to take all this lying down?"

"Not on your life," came a voice from the rear. "We've got shorthand reporters here for that."

Lord Higglebotham was driving through the Adirondacks, and suddenly noticed a sign at the top of a steep grade that read, "Drive slowly. This means you!" He pondered this a moment, then relaxed with a contented smile. "Wonderful country," he mused happily. "How on earth did they know that I was over here?"

BANDIT SHOT DUE TO MAN'S HUNCH

CLEVELAND— (AP) —Willie Beasley, 25-year-old paroled ex-convict, was near death from gunshot wounds today because an east side storekeeper "played a hunch" and slept in the rear of his store.

Sam Thou, 53, the storekeeper, was awakened just before 2 a. m. by the sound of breaking glass, and shot Beasley three times as he surprised the intruder in his delicatessen.

Thou said that on rare occasions he sleeps in a room at the rear of the store. "I just had a hunch to stay there last night," he said.

Newsmen Fail as 'Yarn Spinners'

NEW DELHI—(AP)—When Mahatma Gandhi held spinning classes for the public at his home in the Bhangi (sweepers) colony in New Delhi, it proved that adept spinners of yarns are not always adept spinners of yarn.

Correspondents Andrew Freeman of the New York Post and Norman Cliff of the London News Chronicle both failed the final examination—they couldn't spin yarn fast enough.

RAMADIER WILL SEEK CABINET CONFIRMATION

New French Premier Appears Before Assembly Tomorrow.

PARIS— (AP) —Premier-Designate Paul Ramadier is expected to appear before the national assembly tomorrow for confirmation of a coalition cabinet containing five communists, regardless of whether former Premier-President George Bidault's MRP party supports him.

Politicians said today Ramadier would give his socialist party seven cabinet positions, although it is outranked by both the Communists and the popular Republican movement (MRP). Both those parties and the radical socialists would get five posts each and two would go to Independents, it was said.

Rejects Proposal.

Ramadier rejected an MRP proposal to split the national defense ministry and was reported planning to give the intact position to a Communist, either Francois Billoux or Charles Tillon.

The Communists also were listed in political speculation for the labor, public health, veterans' affairs and a ministry of state post. The latter position was earmarked for Maurice Thorez, who spent part of the war period in Russia.

Bidault was slated for the foreign affairs post. His MRP party also was scheduled to obtain another ministry of state and the justice, war and population portfolio, politicals said.

The socialists, who already have captured the presidency, were to take the premiership, the ministries of interior, national economy, industrial production, colonies and public works and a ministry of state for Leon Blum.

The Radicals were slated for a ministry of state and the navy, education, agriculture and communications posts and Independents were to secure the air and reconstruction, politicals said.

The MRP called a meeting late today to decide whether to join the cabinet.

A copy of Ramadier's proposal for control of the armed forces, circulated among the parties, showed that he intended to limit the Communist defense minister to merely putting policies into effect and to reserve policymaking for others.

The defense minister, the project said, would decide, "according to the principles determined by the premier, the conditions of the distribution of material and troops" and would direct "the common services of the armies of the ground, sea and air."

Ramadier himself, as premier, would make the main decisions.

The MRP's defense proposal raised a new difficulty for Ramadier last night even as he was agreeing to form a cabinet.

Repairman Admits Murder of Wife

CAPE MAY COURTHOUSE, N. J. (UP) - A telephone repairman who confessed killing his wife after he accidentally tapped a line and heard her talking to her lover awaited a formal charge by a grand jury today.

Ernest H. Corson, 28, re-enacted the slaying of his wife, Eleanor, 28, mother of his four children, for state police Sunday. He was arrested Saturday after delivering his wife's body to an undertaker with the announcement, "I've got a job for you outside in my car."

EL RENO, Okla.—(AP)— Three coaches of the west bound Rock Island Rocket were derailed by a broken rail early today at Abbott, Ark., but no one was hurt outside of possible bruises and possible shock.

2 SAVED AFTER DIP IN OCEAN

ABOARD U. S. S. MT. OLYMPUS IN ANTARCTICA—(INS)—A second aircraft tragedy in the Byrd expedition was averted today as two members of the eastern task group were rescued from icy polar waters after their helicopter crashed.

Capt. George Dufek of Rockford, Ill., commander of the task force, and the pilot of the reconnaissance helicopter were pulled from the freezing antarctic waters after the crash. Neither was reported harmed by the experience.

The helicopter plunged into the sea near its base ship, the Pine Island, when ice destroyed the lifting capacity of its four-bladed propellor.

The near-tragedy occurred shortly after a take-off. The plane's pilot endeavored to return aboard as soon as he detected the ice condition of the propellor but was forced to pancake in the sea to avoid crashing into the flagship.

Three members of the expedition were killed in a plane crash in December. Six of their fellow crew members were rescued after an extensive search.

Meanwhile, unloading operations for the central group in the Bay of Whales has been stepped up in tempo. Rear Admiral Richard H. Cruzen ordered the transport Merrick into the hazardous bay to begin discharging cargo.

COUNTY MARKS UP FIRST '47 AUTO FATALITY

cense number reported by a passing motorist. Testimony of witnesses stated that Mowers came out of a sideroad onto State Route 39 in Lucas, hit Milligan who was riding a motorcycle, careened over a curb and kept on going.

Milligan, who was thrown about 35 feet by the impact was treated for bruises by Dr. Paul Lee of Lucas. Sheriff's deputies said that Mowers "had been drinking."

George Swank, 20, of Butler, received multiple lacerations of the face when the car in which he was a passenger hit a utility pole on Park avenue west near Middle park at 4:18 a. m. Sunday. Swank was treated and released by General hospital.

Went to Sleep.

Driver of the car, Harvey C. Greer of Butler, told Mansfield police he apparently went to sleep.

Saturday night accidents in Mansfield brought traffic court citations to Chester W. Miller, 93 Helen avenue, and Stanley Brinley, 634 Grant street.

Miller, cited on unsafe operation charges, bounced his car from one to another of three autos on South Main street near Central park around 9:30 p. m. Saturday, police reported.

According to witnesses, Miller attempted to pass on the right of the moving auto of George Stevens of Newark. In so doing, Miller crashed into the parked car of S. T. Dalton, 111 Poplar street, bounced back to strike Stevens' car, then swerved again to the right to collide with the parked auto of B. F. Owen, Ohio State reformatory business manager. Officers said he had been drinking.

Brinley was charged with speeding for allegedly driving his motorcycle at 45 miles per hour on Bowman street.

Both men will appear in traffic court Wednesday.

In another accident Saturday, Clayton D. Cooper, 483 South Main street, received bruises on his left arm and knee when he was struck by an auto driven by Charles J. Callahan sr., 150 Chilton avenue, on South Main street. Callahan said Cooper, who refused medical attention walked into the street from between two parked autos.

FIRST ROUND GOES TO MURDER SUSPECT

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— A red-haired former army musician was booked on suspicion of murder today in the bloody mutilation slaying of attractive Elizabeth Short, 22-year-old Hollywood hopeful.

But Capt. Jack Donahoe of the police homicide bureau, wearily winding hours of questioning, announced:

"Most of the evidence seems to be on Manley's side."

Robert Manley, 25, salesman for a pipe clamp concern, was taken in custody last night as he returned from a trip to San Francisco. Grilled for hours by homicide detectives working relays, he finally fell asleep answering questionings. Earlier, however, he willingly submitted to a lie detector test. Donahoe said, classifying its results as "confused."

EASTMAN RAPS PORTAL JUDGE

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Eastland (D-Miss) said today the handling of a portal pay case by Federal Judge Frank Picard of Detroit should be investigated by the house of representatives "with a view to impeachment."

Eastland is a member of a senate judiciary subcommittee considering legislation to outlaw more than $4,000,000,000 of portal-to-portal back pay claims. He suggested the investigation at a committee hearing after testimony by Theodore R. Iserman, a New York attorney representing the Chrysler corporation in connection with the portal suits.

Iserman testified that Picard heard a suit for $250,000 brought against Chrysler by plant guards. He said that during the trial Picard said that he wanted it "understood that I am strictly prolabor—I want these men (the guards) to get every penny that is coming to them."

Iserman told the subcommittee that Picard later ordered this remark stricken from the record. The attorney testified that he had later obtained a copy of the remark from the court reporter.

Republicans Planning Investigation of Truman Administration

GOP ALSO WILL TURN EYES ON FDR'S REGIME

House, Senate Committees To Make Sweeping Studies.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The Republican leadership in congress had apparently decided today on a sweeping investigation of the Truman administration.

The probe will reach into the executive departments and agencies of the federal government and will be handled by the committees on executive expenditures of the house and senate

It was expected that the two groups, which have been built up into powerful committees, will make a far-reaching investigation of the New Deal regime, as well as that of the present administration.

The senate committee is headed by Sen Aiken (R) Vt, while Rep. Hoffman (R) Mich, is chairman of the house group

As a result of the decision to vest broad investigating powers in the executive expenditures committees, the house leadership has tentatively decided to block the creation of special investigating committees.

As a result, a projected investigation of surplus property disposal by a special house committee probably will be turned over instead to an executive expenditures subcommittee, headed by Rep Rizley (R) Okla

Work Divided.

The house committee has decided and the senate group probably will follow suit, to divide the investigations among subcommittees, thus enlarging the scope of the proposed probe.

The executive expenditures committees always have had broad jurisdiction over executive departments and agencies, but in the past they have not been active Now, however, commented Senator Aiken, "we're going to have a strong committee."

Other standing committees of the house and senate will not be prevented from conducting their own investigation These will center largely around policy matters, while the two key groups will delve into the administrative actions taken by executive agencies, especially during the war years.

As the house is the traditional guardian of the nation's purse-strings, the committee there was expected to take the lead

The house committee has been literally "paced" for that purpose, with six of the eight Republican members of the powerful rules committee being placed on it. It is the rules committee which exercises a controlling voice over most legislation voted upon in the house.

Teamsters Oppose Labor Legislation

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—The general executive board of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters Saturday informed Senator Taft, Republican leader, that it "bitterly opposed" any legislation providing the setting up of a government tribunal or commission having the power of settlement of jurisdictional disputes within the labor family.

"This is a prerogative and right of labor, and labor claims the just right to settle its own affairs in the future as it has done in the past," said a telegram sent by Daniel J Tobin, president of the teamsters

'GROSS EXAGGERATION'

EDMONTON, Alta.—(AP)—W. A Fallow, Alberta minister of public works, Saturday described as a "gross exaggeration" a story published in the Vancouver Province saying at least $100,000,000 worth of Canol Oil project property has disappeared.

EBEN HOLDEN says—

"A friend just stepped in to show me a new billfold he received as a gift He said 'Pretty fine, don't you think? See, it has my name inside here, too. No mistaking who it belongs to' He was proud of that billfold It belonged to him It had his name on it. Ever stop to think why people put their initials and names on everything possible? It makes that object become part of them That's the way it is with a family monument."

PEOPLE ARE ASKING THESE QUESTIONS ABOUT ARMY ENLISTMENT

Q. What educational benefits do I get under the GI Bill of Rights?

A. If you serve honorably on active duty for a period of 90 days, one day of which is served between September 16, 1940, and the date of termination of the present war, or you are discharged because of an actual service-incurred injury or disability incurred within that first 90-day period of service, you are, upon discharge, entitled to one year of education in the college, trade or business school of your choice for which you can qualify. In addition, each month of active duty, including the first three, prior to the termination of the war, entitles you to another month of post-service education, up to 48 months.

Your tuition, laboratory fees, etc., up to $500 per ordinary school year will be paid by the government. Also, you will receive $65 a month living allowance; $90 a month if you have dependents.

Q. What about family allowances?

A. For men enlisting or reenlisting now, family allowances will continue until six months after the war is officially ended.

Q. What are my chances of going overseas?

A. If you enlist for 3 years, you may select to serve in any overseas theater which has openings, especially Japan or Korea.

Q. Can I still choose the branch of service I want to serve in?

A. Yes. You can pick any branch which has quotas to be filled, if you enlist for 3 years.

Q. Is there any way I can reenlist in my old grade?

A. Yes you can, if you reenlist for a 3-year term within 20 days after your honorable discharge.

Q. Is there any other way I can reenlist in grade?

A. Yes, if you held one of certain military occupational specialties, and were discharged on or after May 12, 1945, you can reenlist in a grade depending on the length of time you held the desired M. O. S.

Seldom, if ever, is a complaint heard that a speech is "too short."

One careful observer notes that there is to be only one "Friday, the 13th" this year—so bad luck will have to be explained in some other way.

It now appears that the only thing needed to bring on the next depression is stupidity—and if a pattern is needed consider the situation in Georgia.

Uniting the Elements of Defense

TIGHTENING of the bonds which bind together the separate branches of national defense has been long overdue. The present plan sounds effective. Army, Navy and Air Force is each to have its own head, and these three secretaries will be under one Secretary of Defense who will have a place in the cabinet. If the head of any one believes his division is not getting sufficient attention in any way, he may go directly to the president. Chances are that such a bypass will seldom be needed, but it is there to insure justice.

Economy and efficiency are to be served by the new move. The nation hopes they will be. It is also pleasant to hear that there will no longer be a Secretary of War. Armies are needed and serve well in many crises of peace. No one in San Francisco in 1906 will forget what it meant to have the army march in to restore order to that earthquake and fire-stricken city, to stop confusion, rioting and looting, to see that all were fed and no more fires were started. The Navy, the Coast Guard with its continual patrolling and air-sea rescues, are both of constant value for peace.

When it comes to war, defense is the only reason why America should ever enter one. Americans will have greater confidence than ever in their forces, united in their new Department of Defense.

Would Restrict Sale of 'Sleeping Pills'

IT HAS been proposed, with good logic, that the present Ohio legislature pass a law curbing the indiscriminate sale of sleeping pills containing barbiturates. It is quite well known, now, that excessive use tends to be habit forming.

In nearby Cleveland the story of a barbiturate addict was recently told. His relatives pointed out that he could get the drug at any pharmacy without a prescription. Stories about overdoses of sleeping pills are fairly common.

It is certainly important, then, that the state legislature act to limit the sale of barbiturates solely to those persons who present a doctor's prescription. Such a measure has been prepared by the American Pharmaceutical association. It is a uniform proposal for all states to supplant the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetics Act.

Ohio legislators will want to study this proposal and pass a law which is in the best interests of the public. Certainly it is the responsibility of the government to protect citizens from the indiscriminate sale of dangerous drugs.

Drug manufacturers may protest through their lobbyists. But they cannot very well openly oppose such a move for the general welfare. Many physicians and druggists have already backed the proposal.

Russia Opposes Exchanging Students

DESPITE repeated efforts by United States officials to set up an exchange program with Russia for students, business and professional leaders, the Soviets remain cold to all proposals. During informal talks American diplomats have been told that many of Russia's universities were destroyed by the war, or that housing facilities are inadequate.

Doubtless there is widespread post-war disruption still affecting Russian life. But the two countries must become better acquainted. It behooves officials in this country to press for visits of Russians to America, and Americans to the USSR. The fact that the Soviets turn down such proposals shows a certain self-consciousness, perhaps even a sense of inferiority on their part. It is quite likely that Russian authorities do not wish Russian students to see the comfort in which capitalistic Americans live, lest they lose their enthusiasm for Russian Communism.

Nothing is better calculated to eradicate such inexperienced national thinking than visits from sympathetic and friendly neighbors.

Highways To Meet Growing Needs

GOOD HIGHWAYS date back to the ancient Romans, who learned early how to handle stone and mortar, thereby spreading civilization more effectively than would otherwise have been possible. But modern Americans easily beat them at their own specialty, and are so rapidly filling the western world with great highways that it makes foreign observers dizzy.

Ohio, for instance, right now is proposing a "state-wide network of express highways" that would have made Julius Caesar dizzy. This one comparatively small part of the U.S.A. considers spending $742,000,000 just to relieve congestion in cities, and the same sort of procedure is rapidly spreading over the whole country.

The big idea at present is to "get rid of the bottle-necks," and this chore is being accomplished with a speed that is incredible to foreigners.

Scouting For Future Teachers

THERE is a ray of hope in sight for those who are alarmed about the present shortage of well trained teachers. In many high schools and colleges an organization has been sponsored which is known as Future Teachers of America.

These promising youngsters are taken on tours of inspection to schools of all ranks, and are given practice assignments as substitute teachers as well as having regular teaching assignments a certain number of times a month. They are under the guidance of experienced teachers and are chosen not only for good grades, but also for the qualities of temperament and character which go to make good guides for the young.

In these enthusiastic young people may be a splendid solution for teacher shortage. Some people are born to teach, others need to be discovered and encouraged, but all teachers need an early start and careful training.

An old designation of payday was, "the ghost walks", which causes Harry Wade to rise and inquire, "Who pays the ghost and how far does it walk?"—suggesting that the executors carry this new angle to the highest court.

A Pennsylvania state college instructor contends that "pigs are not naturally dirty"—that men have made them so—which bears striking similarity to the subject of juvenile delinquency.

ELECTION RETURNS IN POLAND

Handful of States Hold Power By Retaining Ancient Seniority Rules

By RAYMOND MOLEY

THE HOUSE of representatives is fairly representative of the United States. But in the actual exercise of power, a few states predominate. This is due to seniority and to the political split between the South and North. Another factor is the great power of committees, of committee chairmen.

In the new congress, the house has, under the Reorganization Act, 19 standing committees. As a result of the rule of seniority, the chairmen of these committees are drawn from nine states. Fifteen of the chairmen are from five states. Michigan has five; New Jersey, four; Kansas, New York and Illinois, two each; and Iowa, California, Massachusetts and Minnesota, one each.

The entire South has no committee chairmen. The great West beyond Kansas has one. The big states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Missouri, Indiana and Wisconsin have none.

It is true that the distribution of committee chairmanships under the Democratic congress was equally unrepresentative. There were 48 standing committees then. Twenty-nine chairmen were from eight states: New York, Texas, Missouri, Georgia, Alabama, North Carolina, California and Mississippi. Pennsylvania and Illinois had only one each. Ohio, Wisconsin and Indiana had none.

By a curious quirk, Illinois has had the powerful rules chairmanship in both congresses.

There is a solid North as well as a solid South. Neither is conducive to a balanced government. Certainly, the seniority system is not the way to a more efficient government.

As this column pointed out last summer, a victory for the Democrats in the last election would have produced some dreadful misfits as chairmen. This would have been especially true in the senate, because of the death, defeat and retirement of so many Democrats. Again, seniority would have been responsible.

It was a bitter task to get the Reorganization Bill passed. The bill had to be sweetened by a pay increase for congress and by more patronage. But if any alteration in the seniority system had been attempted, there would have been no reform at all.

It seems to be taken for granted that there is no practical substitute for the seniority system. It provides an arbitrary and inflexible system of selection. The will and discretion of the whole house is not involved.

But any effort to establish another system of selection can be defeated by the self-perpetrating nature of seniority itself.

The old, the lucky and those who come from top-heavy districts hold sway. New, vigorous and ambitious members are consigned to oblivion.

Hundreds of representatives have been elected over the years, only to find that house membership for a newcomer is a dull and unprofitable life. The more vigorous have dropped out after a term or two. They realize that, before their time for important roles will come, the political wheel will turn and a landslide will put them out. Only those who come from one-party districts or from boss-ridden cities in the North have a chance.

The house and senate should elect permanent committees on selection, and those committees should be responsible for committees and committee chairmen. Their selections would be tainted with politics and log-rolling, to be sure. But their judgment would be better than death, chance and circumstance.

Dave Boone Says:

I READ the other day that divorces in this country in the past year broke all records. A new high was set in Reno alone with 11,000, as against the previous peak of 8,500. It was a similar story in all the divorce courts of the land.

* * *

A Reno judge blames it on the war, and he don't mean the one in the living room. He says people had so much money they could afford divorces. Well, he's wrong. States and cities and counties that sneer at marriage as a sacrament and break up homes wholesale at a price are alone to blame.

* * *

The striking thing about divorce figures is that away out in the lead are young couples who haven't even given marriage a fair trial. "We found we just couldn't get along. Our temperaments were unsuited," you hear after a marriage of one or two years.

Shucks, the first five or six years, are the toughest. America owes its happiness and decency to the millions of mothers and fathers who stuck together in rough going, even to overlooking a few vases hurled around and a lot of chairs kicked over. They were happiest at 25th wedding anniversaries surrounded by fine offspring.

Farmer's Diary: "Home To the Stranger."

THE stranger stood in a niche of the well-worn brick wall, along our village street, and his eyes followed every passerby — it seemed he had paused to rest, out of the chilly wind. A worn grip was on the stone beside him. He wore a drab gray suit and a warm woolen cap, with turned up tabs.

Beneath a rim of gray hair, his wrinkled round face was wide awake, alert to the people passing along the sidewalk, to the cars and trucks that passed in the street, the business places on the opposite side . . . much more alert than the countenances of the native villagers, who went mechanically about their morning duties.

This man had nothing to sell. He had just paused to rest and to observe. Down the street, and up, friends and neighbors met and greeted each other; some paused to chat more intimately. Some carried packages or baskets filled with bundles—some led small children by the hand. These I saw the old man observe with interest.

The village banker passed by, on his way to business, and as is his habit greeted him with a smile. The smile through those whiskers, and the light in the stranger's eye amazed me. What little effort, I thought, to call out such deep human emotion.

I casually walked over and stopped to bid him good morning. His reaction was spontaneous and unusually modest. "Something about you makes me think of the sea," I said.

"I'm no longer ship-shape," he told me, "but ye're right. I grew up in a fine little village much like this one, close by the sea. Yonder where the river flows, wuz where the fisherman's boats were tied . . . the inlet ran out to the sea. People were friendly, too, like here. Yes—I leaned up here and watched the folks go by and thought about my own town, with no automobiles, only horses and wagons and buggies, and boats down at the bridge.

"I had a young wife then—and a family of three—now all grown and passed on. My wife, best companion a man ever had, was an invalid and passed away 12 years ago last week. So I'm all alone, but my health is good, and I keep moving along and always find something new to see and do. Now I'm headin' for Floridy where I can work where its warm and livin's cheap. Yes—I'm pretty old, but I can keep myself clean, and people are kind to an old man. For just a little extra work on a farm or around a stable, they let me stay overnight, and give me the chance to clean up and do my laundry work. I wonder sometimes that people are so kind . . . by doing so little, they give me so much."

In Defense of Comics.

Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, chancellor of the University of Chicago, inveighs against the newspaper and book comics, calling them the symbol of our degenerating "culture epoch."

Looking gloomily into the future, he wants to know what we shall do with ourselves when the atomic age makes getting a living so easy we shall have scads and scads of leisure.

Answer: We shall go on brooding over the ills of the world and how to make living still easier and happier, and we shall have more and better comics to make us smile between broods and to balance our moods.—Detroit News.

Justice Department Handicapped In Pressing Criminal Tax Cases

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Some of the nation's biggest black-marketeers and on-the-make war contractors are now getting away with income-tax evasion, thanks to a snarled situation inside the justice department.

Around 300 criminal income-tax cases are now awaiting prosecution with little chance of rapid action.

Behind them is another 1,200 income tax fraud cases in the treasury, soon ready for transmittal to the bottlenecked justice department. Meanwhile, the black-marketeers and certain war contractors have been getting away with murder.

Here is the inside story of what happened.

During the last year of the war, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau asked congress for extra funds to probe income-tax evasion. He learned of tremendous amounts of cash being used by black-marketeers to cover up their tracks; so asked congress for extra agents to ferret out the fraud.

Morgenthau got the money, hired the agents, and set more than a thousand of them to work. Secretary of the Treasury Fred Vinson, who succeeded him, pushed this probe equally hard. And it began to strike pay dirt. Millions of dollars fraudulently concealed from the government, while American boys were dying for their country, was unearthed.

Now that these cases have been prepared by the treasury, however, and gone over to the justice department, they have struck a bottleneck.

Unlike Morgenthau, Attorney General Tom Clark has not asked congress for extra money to handle the flood of cases. Instead, his tax division is bogged down with overwork, and only three men are definitely in charge of these particular criminal tax cases.

Furthermore, the justice department's tax division does not even have a chief. For months no assistant attorney general has been appointed to handle this vitally important bureau. For months, Attorney General Clark has hemmed and hawed about appointing a tax chief, but nothing has happened. Meanwhile, tax cases have continued to pile up.

Note—The justice department has gone after two interesting tax cases involving Democrats, ex-Senator Berry of Tennessee and ex-administrative assistant to FDR Eugene Casey. But for some reason the big cases involving Republicans haven't been touched. Maybe the justice boys are worried over the new Republican congress.

"Get Close to Crime."

Popular Assistant Attorney General Lamar Caudle, in charge of the justice department's criminal division, was speaking before the N. Y. Mirror youth forum the other day as a substitute for his boss, Attorney General Tom Clark.

Clark had been detained in Washington by a Supreme Court hearing, and Assistant Caudle read the speech instead. After concluding the written text, Caudle graciously proceeded to add a few remarks of his own.

"I want to tell you again," said the chief of the criminal division, "how sorry the attorney general is that he could not be with you today. He wants me to tell you that if you have any problems dealing with juvenile delinquency, don't hesitate to take them up with us. Come and see us at any time.

"I want you to feel close to the justice department," continued the assistant attorney general in charge of crime. "I want you to feel close to the criminal division. . . ."

Mr. Caudle got no further. The uproar of laughter from the youth of New York indicated that they did not relish being close to the justice department's criminal division.

GOP Road-Blocks.

Most people don't realize it, and the Republicans are sure to deny it, but the government now faces its most difficult period for the recruiting of able public servants.

Since the let-down following war, it has been difficult anyway to get good men to come to Washington. But now that they face the hostile hurdle of a Republican congress it is almost impossible.

For about the only type of man the Republicans will easily OK for a government job these days is one who has offended nobody, taken no stand on anything more controversial than mother, home and heaven.

Unfortunately, however, the best public servants, as in private business, are the men with the courage of their convictions and not afraid to battle for them. The man who has never taken a stand in private life, won't take one in public life—not even against red tape. In fact it is this type of colorless government servant who gets so badly bogged down in red tape.

Significant illustration of GOP unreasonableness is ex-Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, now nominated as a civil service commissioner. Miss Perkins was a cabinet member for 13 years, during which time many people disagreed with her. But when you review the labor difficulties of today, a lot of her one-time critics thinks Miss Perkins did a better job than was appreciated. In any event, she got to know the government inside out, and that is one of the most important qualifications for a civic service commissioner.

However, when Miss Perkins, name came before the senate last summer, GOP leader Taft objected. And when her name came up again at the opening of this congress, GOP objections stopped her a second time.

That illustrates why so many good men won't take government jobs today.

Meanwhile, the need for good men in Washington is greater than ever.

Capital Chaff.

Within 72 hours after the announcement of Jimmie Byrnes' resignation as secretary of state, more than 150 offers of private employment at annual salaries ranging from $50,000 up, poured across the little South Carolinian's desk. Byrnes, however, will take a 4-to-5 month rest, and if an anticipated Supreme Court resignation comes through by June 30, he will remount the high bench. . . . When Representative Francis Case offered his new labor bill, it became the subject of discussion by several Democratic senators at lunch last week. Remarked Senator Jim Murray of Montana: "Why, this bill puts everything you can imagine in the courts. It'll be a field day for shyster lawyers. I'm not so sure I can object to that. As father of the Full Employment bill, can I consistently object to a measure which is designed to make for full employment—even for lawyers?"

Economic Report By February 1 Demanded.

WASHINGTON — Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) has a way of stirring things up. He's a prodding sort of gentleman.

Now he has taken it upon himself to remind Republicans of another big job that the last congress saddled upon itself, and now upon them, since they have taken over its management. Republicans are none too thankful for the reminder.

This is the preparation of an economic report as required by the 1946 employment act. It is the job of the joint economic committee, seven from each branch of congress representing both parties.

This report is supposed to be based on that submitted by President Truman recently, which was a rather comprehensive document, both a survey of economic outlook and recommendation for action by congress.

It has to do with lots of things, including employment and jobs.

Republicans were inclined to let this job slide for awhile. But the Wyoming senator, who is retiring chairman of the joint committee, called a meeting last week, reminded it of its responsibility and pointed out that the employment act requires the report to be ready by Feb. 1.

Furthermore, the committee is required to make a continuing study of matters set forth in the president's report and to seek means of co-ordinating various programs to further the policy of the employment act.

Senator Taft (R., O.), a member of the committee, argued that it was impossible to have a report ready by Feb. 1. Senator O'Mahoney disagreed, and pointed to the law. So the committees to meet again this week, organize itself with a new Republican chairman, probably Senator Taft, and see what's what.

Senator O'Mahoney does not intend to let the matter rest. The employment act, passed with such a fanfare by the last congress, won't mean anything unless the committee does its part as required by law.

Some embarrassment is involved for Republicans. For the president outlined a long-range program for congress in his report, including such controversial measures as housing, social security expansion, public health and education, anti-trust law revision and enforcement, all in the New Deal category.

This presumably would require Republicans to disclose what they intend to do about these matters, about which there are differences within the party, as well as with the administration. They had postponed discussion of such issues, devoting themselves now to labor legislation, budget and tax affairs.

Senator O'Mahoney's particular interest now, as for years, is anti-monopoly legislation. The president put that high on the list, too.

The senator says something must be done promptly to stop the sweeping tide of concentration of industry into fewer and fewer hands if small business is to survive and the free-enterprise system is to be preserved.

This concentration, which went on swiftly during the war, has continued since VJ-day, he says.

"Congress can no longer be satisfied with mere headline hunting as far as small business is concerned," he said. "The time has come to pass legislation that will prevent monopoly in advance, instead of going through the long and difficult anti-trust procedure after the monopoly already has been accomplished."

Federal Aid for Teachers May Lose Out.

WASHINGTON — Federal aid to bolster America's declining public school system is likely to be shoved aside in the great economy drive now on in congress. But that will not happen without a contest.

There are indications that opinion is at long last aroused over the failing condition of public education in almost every state in the union.

The people back home are letting their congressmen know what this means in terms of closed schools and hopelessly crowded classrooms. Editorial writers are dwelling on the danger to a nation that neglects the fundamental.

In principle most members of congress would be for some degree of federal aid. But it is over the size and kind of aid that they disagree. And because they disagree, violently and in a variety of ways, the probability is for no action at all.

In the last congress, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio joined with two Democrats, Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama and Sen. Elbert D. Thomas of Utah, in sponsoring a bill which provided a moderate federal subsidy for education.

About $250,000,000 a year would be allocated to states unable out of their own revenues, to spend a minimum of $40 a year for each child of school age. The state would receive an allocation based on the proportion of its income devoted to education.

About 33 states would be eligible for aid under the bill. Texas would get $21,758,000, North Carolina $21,732,000, Alabama $8,848,000, Georgia $17,406,000, and these sums would range down to $73,000 for Montana. Fifteen states, those with high educational standards and large revenues from concentrated wealth, such as California, New York and Massachusetts, would get no benefits.

At the other extreme is a proposal to make up to $2,000,000,000 a year available to the nation's schools, without regard to need in the separate states. This will shortly be reintroduced under the sponsorship of Senators James E. Murray and Claude Pepper, Democrats, and probably Sen. Wayne Morse, Republican.

The Taft-Hill-Thomas proposal will also be reintroduced. Taft is for it again. But he does not hold out much hope for its passage. Congress will turn down the Murray-Pepper-Morse proposal, as Taft sees it, and this will kill all chance of any aid to education.

If Taft set out earnestly to work for the moderate bill, it would almost certainly pass the senate. It might even get by the house. But this is an economy year and the Republicans are looking for ways to cut down on federal spending. Taft might "get by" if he gave the proposal lip service without worrying too much over whether it was passed.

There are at least two major differences between the Murray and the Taft schools of thought on this matter. One, of course, is the difference in the amount of money appropriated. A second major difference is that the Murray bill makes the federal money available to all schools, Parochial as well as public.

The two most powerful lobbies pushing aid to education are the National Education association and the American Federation of Teachers, an AFL union.

The teachers' union will fight hard for the Murray bill, with its big appropriation. The NEA, an independent organization, would probably settle for the more moderate Taft proposal.

So the ball will be batted back and forth, and the score when the game ends is likely to be zero or close to it.

74-Year-Old Galion Odd Jobs Man Burned to Death

'BERT' FORTNEY DIES AT HOME GUTTED BY FIRE

Body Found Slumped in Rear of Two-Room House.

GALION—Henry "Bert" Fortney, 74-year-old "odd jobs" man, burned to death early yesterday when his two-room home in Galion was gutted by fire.

Fortney, who lived alone in the small house, was found in a small back storage room slumped against a charred wall. The body was burned beyond recognition, Crawford County Coroner O. R. Kackley said.

Earl Holmes, of Galion, a passing motorist, discovered the blaze at 2 a. m., and notified the Galion fire department.

Firemen who arrived on the scene a few minutes later immediately began a search for the aged man. They first searched the front room, used as a combined living and bedroom. They discovered the body in the storage room.

Front Door Locked.

While a stove was located in the front room, firemen believe the blaze started in the back room where coal and other supplies were stored.

Firemen said the front door was locked, but that the back door was burned off. Only the charred frame on the back room where Fortney died remained standing.

The front room of the residence was gutted by the fire, and contents destroyed. Firemen extinguished the blaze in 30 minutes.

Fortney, a native of Marion, had lived in Galion for 45 years. He did odd jobs around Galion, and it was reported that he had been seen on a downtown street at 11 p. m. Saturday.

Funeral service were scheduled for 2 p. m. today at the Snyder funeral home. Rev. W. R. Ellis of the Church of Christ will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

AMONG the arrivals aboard the General Meigs in San Francisco was Rabbi Simon Kalish, who finally reached the U. S. after years of fleeing persecution. Accompanied by rabbis and students, he fled Poland in 1939, crossed Russia through Siberia, and wandered down the coast to Shanghai, where he was interned by the Japs. As the ship docked, he said happily: "At last we are here." (International)

RETAIL PRICE OF MILK DROPS CENT IN BUCYRUS

BUCYRUS — The price of milk was reduced one cent a quart, effective today, Bucyrus dairies have announced.

Spokesmen also said the price of cheese and other dairy products would be cut proportionate amounts.

Housewives in the Bucyrus area today paid 18 cents a quart for ordinary pasteurized milk, and 19 cents for homogenized milk.

The cut, which marked the first break in retail prices of dairy products since before the war; was attributed by a dairy authority to a decline of as much as 38 cents per hundredweight in the wholesale milk prices.

A sharp break in the wholesale butter market in Chicago brought more good news to Bucyrus housewives, with the price of butter at city markets reduced to as low as 69 cents a pound.

Other stores here are retailing the commodity from 73 to 75 cents. Little more than a week ago, butter was selling for 85 cents a pound.

...FAMILY MESSAGE NUMBER 10

Discontented Little Rich Girl

Not the amount of money spent on your child, but how you spend it, is important, says this authority

One man who has many chances to see what does and does not help make contented, happy children is Dr. James S. Plant, Director of the Essex County Juvenile Clinic, in Newark, N. J.

So we asked Dr. Plant what he thought about the part money played in making childhood the joyous time we all want our own kids to remember.

"The problem, of course," he said, "is one of the wise use of money, within the parents' means. I have seen children spoiled by parents who were too carelessly generous; and I have seen them soured by parents who seemed to begrudge them every nickel.

"It is very much worth-while to plan family finances so that a child can have some money regularly for the right kind of fun, so he can hold up his end in his own group life, and so he can learn to be a responsible individual in managing money.

Toys that Teach

"In the beginning, many of us buy too many and too expensive playthings for our children. This tends to focus the child's ideas on buying instead of doing as the source of happiness. A better idea is to give simple things which are an invitation to activity and ingenuity, such as checker boards, building, sewing and craft sets.

"But don't forget that the happy child, like the happy grownup, must have normal group activities, and will have a natural pride in playing his part in them. Try, for example, to see that he has enough money for that baseball bat or glove, those sneakers or gym clothes, that will enable a boy or girl to 'join the team.'

"And, finally, as the child grows up, give him increasing 'freedom of choice' in the ways his share of the family money is spent. This teaches the invaluable lesson that some things must be foregone to get others, and that saving for a more distant reward is often more satisfying than grasping at immediate ones."

Watch for Family Message No. 11, about two weeks from now.

HOW TO PLAN FOR FAMILY HAPPINESS

Regardless of the size of income, any family can have more happiness and fewer worries by planning the use of the family money.

First: provide in advance for payments coming due, such as rent, taxes, mortgage charges, life insurance and other insurance. The easiest way is to bank small amounts each payday that will add up to the totals when due.

Second: set aside something extra each payday in the savings account until you build up an emergency fund.

Then you know what is left to spend on everyday family needs such as food, clothing, recreation—and what you can afford to set aside for such future family plans as a new home, education, travel.

• • •

Because the life insurance companies and their agents have long helped people to plan for family security and happiness, they are conducting this program of information as a public service to the 72,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American family.

U.N. Clash Over Albania Looms

DELAY LIKELY IN TALKS ON DISARMAMENT

Soviet Delegate Planning To Push Demand For Action.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. —(INS)— The deadlock holding Russia and the United States at bay on disarmament before the security council is expected to shift today to a clash over Albania between the Soviet Union and Britain.

Informal week-end talks among some of the eleven-nation members of the international tribunal disclosed that at this afternoon's 3 o'clock session, the United States proposal to adjourn disarmament discussion until Feb. 4 is certain of approval by a majority.

Andrei Y. Gromyko, Russia's representative on the council, has indicated he will fight the delay and continue to insist that his own demand for immediate appointment of a disarmament commission be assured early consideration.

The begrudging consent of the security council to defer disarmament debate until Feb. 4 is anticipated partly because a majority of members feel that General George C. Marshall as new secretary of state should have an opportunity to study international issues and to consult with American representative Warren R. Austin.

Reports circulating at Lake Success today suggest that a subcommittee might be set up this afternoon with instructions to probe for a compromise on all snags in the disarmament procedure by Feb. 4.

British Push Case.

The British government has disclosed, in the meantime, that it will press its case against Albania on the Corfu Channel mining and seek a meeting of the council for Wednesday to begin hearings.

Two Admiralty representatives now here to help Britain's chief delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan conduct the complaint revealed that the Hague convention of 1907 will be invoked among other evidence.

The international statute provides that even in wartime, any country laying mines must take every precaution to protect peaceful shipping and give adequate notice. Forty-four British seamen lost their lives when two destroyers struck mines in the Corfu Channel a mile off the Albanian coast last October.

Discloses Attack.

The British government will also attempt to prove before the council that Albania deliberately laid the mines by offering the affidavit of an Italian skipper alleging that his tug, carrying UNRRA relief supplies, was fired on from the Albanian shore six days after the mining incident.

Diplomatic observers predict that Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko will take up the cudgel in support of Albania and make strenuous efforts to block a judgment in favor of Britain. It is recalled that last year, Russia strove with might and main to have Albania voted into membership of the United Nations. During the sessions of the council of foreign ministers, Foreign Commissar Viacheslav Molotov also demanded and got a token amount of reparations from Italy for Albania.

Ship Survivors Relate Tale of Panic, Horror

ATHENS—(INS)—A tale of panic and horror at sea was disclosed today by survivors of the Greek steamer Chimarra which struck a mine early Sunday and carried nearly 400 persons to death.

Greek women and children as well as hand-cuffed prisoners were among those who perished in the marine disaster in the Alalante channel, 25 miles northeast of Athens.

Survivors of the sinking of the 1,200 ton vessel, which exploded and sank rapidly, told of frantic mothers and screaming babies being drowned in the channel waters.

One of the 200 survivors, Nicholas Kalinkinis, a soldier, related: "The water was full of struggling passengers clinging to each other and holding onto life belts.

"Four lifeboats were afloat. At least 60 passengers were in one. Five hours later a small schooner began picking up the survivors. Meantime most of the women and nearly all the children had gone under. Although the shore of the island of Kavalieni was less than a thousand yards away, hardly a single one had strength to swim."

Officers aboard the vessel fired their revolvers into the air in an effort to halt the panicky rush of the passengers to the few lifeboats aboard. Some survivors blamed their efforts to avert the panic for the high death toll.

Only a few of the persons aboard reached lifeboats in the water before the vessel heeled over and sank in a quarter of an hour. Many lifeboats overturned when they reached the water and still another capsized, throwing the occupants into the sea.

Forty political prisoners, manacled beneath decks, were believed to have perished. Parliamentary deputies from Macedonia and members of a party which recently escorted Crown Prince Paul on a tour in northern Greece were also reported aboard.

The merchant marine ministry listed the number of passengers as 324 with a crew of 80 or more manning the ill-fated craft. A communique announced that only 160 passengers have been accounted for but did not include any possible survivors of the crew.

It's Strange, But Meat, Pianos Mix

CHICAGO —(AP)— The piano business is looking up now that the meat shortage is over.

And it's not because strong, husky, well-fed men are needed to push pianos around the factory, William A. Mills, executive secretary of the National Association of Music Merchants, said. "We've had a lot of trouble getting glue, essential animal glue, but plenty has been coming in recently," Mills said.

THANK GOD FOR MUSCLE-RUB!

WRITES MR. ROBERT JORDAN, COLON, MICH.

Advises every sufferer from Rheumatic—Arthritic—Sciatic—Neuritic Pains to try Muscle-Rub.

Here's the true story of a man who took treatments, used all kinds of remedies for his sciatic, neuritic pains without being helped in the slightest degree. Mr. Robert Jordan of Colon, Mich., suffered agony from pains in his hip—knee—calf of legs. The pain at times was so bad that he couldn't sit down. He tried several different treatments, many different medicines, all of which did him no good. He couldn't work. Life was misery for him.

Then one day he saw an advertisement of Muscle-Rub—the doctor's prescription—and in desperation bought a bottle. He used it as directed and in 3 days the pains were relieved and Mr. Jordan was back on the job.

No wonder he advises every rheumatic sufferer to try Muscle-Rub for fast pain relief. Get a bottle today at Gray's and all good drug stores.

Remember, Muscle-Rub is sold on this money back guarantee. If only half a bottle doesn't bring relief your druggist is authorized to return your money. —Adv.

We Are Reducing Prices of All Ford Cars

"As Much as $50 on Some Models"

Effective Immediately

A Statement by Henry Ford II

"Although more than one million of our customers are waiting for delivery of their cars at present prices, we are immediately reducing the price of every Ford car—some models as much as $50.

"This is our 'down payment' toward a continued high level of production and employment in the months ahead. We believe that the 'shock treatment' of prompt action is needed to halt the insane spiral of mounting costs and rising prices and to restore a sound base for the hopeful period of post-war production we are now entering.

"Let me review briefly the considerations which have led us to take this important step.

"The Ford Motor Company is in the mass production business. Mass production depends upon large markets. It will continue to succeed only if it can produce more and more at lower and lower cost so that more and more people can buy. Large markets begin to disappear when prices rise.

"The un-American spiral of mounting costs and rising prices has hurt everybody—some groups more than others. Many have not benefited from post-war wage increases, but have had to share the burden of resulting higher prices. Already, millions of American families are unable to buy the things which, in normal times, make up their standard of living. In the short view, we can see inflation. In the long view, there is danger of depression.

"The period since V-J Day has been an unhappy and costly period of reconversion to peacetime production. Ford Motor Company has lost millions of dollars since V-J Day, even after all tax adjustments.

"But the crisis of this wild aftermath of war seems to have been passed. Our own production, though still limited by material shortages, is now steadier. Productivity of our employes, which hit a new low during the period, seems to have started its return to normal. Ford Motor Company made a modest profit for the last three months of 1946, and we intend to continue to operate in the black.

"The American economy now stands at a turning point. Mounting costs and rising prices have warranted caution and hesitancy. There is even general fear that this dangerous, un-American cycle cannot be corrected without an economic recession. We think this fear can be dispelled by common sense and action. And among free men that becomes an individual responsibility.

"The Ford Motor Company therefore proposes to accept its losses since V-J Day as an item of the cost of a great and victorious war. We are closing our books on that phase of our production history. We have decided that now is the time for us to make an investment in the future.

"Because they must build up depleted cash reserves or because they are still losing money, many businesses may not be able to follow suit. But we hope that our suppliers, our employes, and our other economic partners will back, each to his own ability, our attempt to return to the economic pattern which has helped to make America great—the principle that higher wages and a higher standard of living for all depend upon lower costs and lower prices through increasingly efficient large-scale production.

"We hope, as we move forward, that we will be able to reduce prices further, and that we will not be forced to raise them again to compensate for cost increases."

Henry Ford II

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, January 21.

THE planetary indications are for a pleasant and profitable state of affairs, with finances, professional and business plans moving along smoothly toward cherished goals, and with social, artistic and affectional relations bringing much happiness. The latter may be cause for celebration or festivities honoring some special event, possibly an engagement, marriage or christening. In more practical objectives the logical and well-considered approach would prove more lucrative than forced issues or tactics.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of pleasant and profitable relations, with all matters moving into high arcs of prestige, popularity, enhanced credit and resources. A reasonable and modest technique in business and finance would find better and more expansive results than force, show or any sign of extravagance.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The postwar period has brought a decrease in juvenile delinquency in New York City, but the rate is still above pre-war years, Magistrate Anna M. Kross, presiding judge of the home term of city magistrate courts, said Saturday.

Figures released by Magistrate Kross showed that 5,865 children under 16 were held on delinquency charges during 1946. The wartime peak, in 1945, was 6,975, while the total for the last pre-war year, 1941, was 4,438.

REDDY GETS A FISH

Reddy Fox is an opportunist, always ready to make the best and most of opportunity. One of the first things he learned when he first stalked out for himself in the Great World was that opportunity often appears when least expected and seldom waits for any one. Those not prepared to instantly make the most of it usually lose. So he learned never to let surprise cheat him of opportunity. One who is always ready to make the most of whatever may come his way is an opportunist. Most of the Great Forest folk who live by hunting are opportunists. They have to be.

Reddy had just rid himself of the Dogs who had been chasing him. He had allowed them to almost catch him at the Big River, then jumped across a narrow lane of open water. One Dog, trying too late to stop, slid in with a splash. The other jumped, but the ice on which he landed had broken and he too got a cold bath. You see he was much heavier than Reddy.

From the ice on the middle of the Big River Reddy had watched them scramble ashore, shake themselves and, wet and shivering, start for home. Then instead of trying to jump back over that lane of open water he had trotted toward the upper end of it where it was so narrow that it was hardly more than a wide crack in the ice. He was at the edge of this, just ready to jump across, when the most surprising thing happened. A brown head and a fish popped out of the water almost under his nose.

Probably Reddy never had had a more unexpected surprise in all his life, but he didn't allow it to cheat him of opportunity. No, sir, he didn't allow it to upset, to fluster him, the least bit. In a flash he had grabbed hold of that fish just as if he had been waiting for and expecting it.

Of course the brown fisherman who had caught that fish, and had brought it up intending to climb out on the ice to eat it, was as much surprised by Reddy as Reddy was by him, but he didn't let go of that fish. He set his teeth in it harder. He wouldn't lose that fish if he could help himself. Of course you know who that brown fisherman was — Billy Mink.

Billy did his best to pull that fish away from Reddy back into the water, but Reddy was too big, too strong for him. Compared with Reddy Billy Mink is a little fellow. So he was dragged from the water with the fish and back on the ice a little way. He is small in size but big in courage.

Reddy let go of the fish and snapped at Billy Mink. His sharp teeth came together on nothing. Quick as he had been Billy Mink had been quicker. He had let go of that fish and jumped to one side. He sat with his back arched like a living spring. His small eyes were red with fury. He hissed and spat and snarled.

"That is my fish," he snarled.

"You mean it was your fish. It is mine now," Reddy snarled back.

"I caught it," hissed Billy.

"I've got it," snarled Reddy. "You know the law of the Green Forest. That which one has and can hold is his. I need this fish. You can get more where this came from. I can't and you know it. This is my fish now, and if you think you can take it away from me just try."

Billy did try. Few can move as quickly as Billy Mink. His cousin, Shadow the Weasel can, but few if any others. The words were hardly out of Reddy's mouth when Billy grabbed that fish by the head and pulled it from beneath Reddy's black paws. Reddy jumped for him and again Billy had to let go and dodge. An instant later he had that fish by the tail. Of course he had to let go and dodge as before.

So Billy Mink hissed and spat at Reddy Fox, and Reddy growled and snarled at Billy Mink, as each claimed the fish as his. They were so busy quarreling that they forgot everything else. Whose fish was it? Billy Mink caught it. Reddy Fox had it. Who would eat it?
